If city misses payments

County threatens to end Sheriff's patrol

Wayne County Board of Commissioners last month notified the City of Romulus that contractual police services, provided by the Sheriff's Department, will be terminated, if payments by the city fall more than two months behind.

The county and the city have been engaged in an ongoing controversy over more than $800,000 which the Sheriff's Department contends is owed by Romulus for past police services.

The city maintains it has not been adequately notified of increased payments due to salary raises granted deputies under new contracts, that itemized billing has nt been provided and documented, and that the current monthly payment amounts are in error.

'They can't just pass a resolution and change the contract...'

The county, on the other hand, claims the city has not paid increases for retroactive pay boosts it paid to its deputies and has made monthly payments that are the same as those paid under the last contract which has expired.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar has consistently insisted that the $800,000 plus figure for police services is grossly in error.

"What the city actually owes is closer to zero," he contended.

He said the county and city are still operating under provisions of the expired contract.

"They can't just pass a resolution and change the contract. We have to negotiate those things," the clerk said.

According to the letter sent to the clerk, the County Board of Auditors made the recommendation that the City of Romulus pay for contractual police servies 60 days in advance. The recommendation was contained in the 1979-80 budget report of the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Commissioners.

The Board of Auditors indicated that payment for contractual police services provided by the Sheriff's Department have not been "received in a timely fashion, thereby adding to the county's cash flow problems."

Wayne County's depleted financial condition has been the subject of headlines for many months. The county has asked the state for financial aid.

The letter to Folmar stated that the Ways and Means Committee believes the county's cash flow problems can be resolved by adopting a policy that requires the City of Romulus and the Board of County Road Commissioners (airport police) to provide 60-day funding in advance for police services by the staff.

Further, the letter stated that the Ways and Means Committee recommended that the new policy be initiated in the 1979-80 budget, with the stipulation that "...if and when the required advances drop to a level below that necessary to fully fund one pay period, then appropriate layoff notices shall be immediately issued".

The Board of Commissioners voted Nov. 29, 1979 to amend its current policy, thereby requiring Romulus and the Road Commission to pay for police services 60 days in advance.

Romulus has taken no action to pay the $800,000 plus amount which the county said is owed for police services. With the threat of police services being terminated, the future of police protection for residents of Romulus hangs in limbo at the present time.

Let it be known

One area motorist isn't taking any chances, when it comes to driving this early model Ford Pinto Runabout. The car's owner afixed a highly noticeable "Flammable" sticker in the vehicles rear window. The Pinto has been the center of controversy for several years because of the design of its gas tank. In fact, the Ford Motor Co. currently is on trial in Indiana on charges of criminal negligence stemming from an accident in which three teen-aged girls were burned to death after their Pinto car was hit in the rear.—ANP Photo by Tom Greenwood.

Hearing quells fear of annexation move

Van Buren Township residents living along Hannan Road, alerted by a flyer that Romulus was planning to annex them, breathed a sign of relief last Wednesday at learning that all annexations affecting the township are frozen.

Hannan Road residents attended a special meeting of the State Boundary Commission at the township hall, which was called to gather input and answer questions on proposed consolidation of the township and the City of Belleville.

In nine months the Boundary Commission is expected to rule on whether to approve the consolidation. If approved, petitions must be signed and filed by a specified number of registered voters in both communities, with favorable vote by both communities at a special election, for the consolidation to be successful.

If no petitions are filed within 45 days, the consolidation process automatically moves ahead. Voters in both communities would vote for a 9-member charter commission at the same time they would be voting on whether they wanted to consolidate.

If approved, the elected charter commission would have two years and two elections to win voter approval of the charter for a new home rule city. Consolidation would become a dead issue, if both attempts fail.

With the entire procedure anticipated to take five years, all annexation attempts aimed at township land would be frozen for that period, the Boundary Commission explained.

Should the consolidation issue fail to get off the ground, still confronting township residents is a vote at the next election on charter status. Cullin estimated that the township would get about two years of protection against annexation because such action also would be frozen until that election is completed.

As a charter township, Van Buren will be afforded greater protection against annexation at attempts by its neighbors, Belleville and Romulus. Belleville recently has annexed two parcels from the township.

Merging of the township and Belleville into a home rule city would combine many services now provided to residents, with the possibility that costs to taxpayers would be reduced.

About 50 township and city residents turned out for the special public hearing, many of whom asked to be heard. The Boundary Commission will allow an additional 30 days in which officials and residents of both communities can submit information on the proposed consolidation.

During the public hearing, some members of the audience voiced comments that some Boundary Commission members appeared to be as much in the dark about consolidation and charter status as they themselves.

Thieves take church's tabernacle

Thieves made off with the gold-plated tabernacle from St. Aloysius Church, 11208 Ozga Road, Romulus, some time between midnight and 8 a.m. Jan. 8, according to police.

Detectives Robert Pond and Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department reported they found footprints and evidence that the heavy tabernacle had been dragged in the snow along the railroad tracks near the church.

Lindberg said the astronomical increase in the price of gold worldwide had probably prompted the thieves to make off with the tabernacle, a heavy box with two doors in which items used in Communion are stored. The tabernacle is roughly two feet by 1½ feet by 1½ feet, he explained.

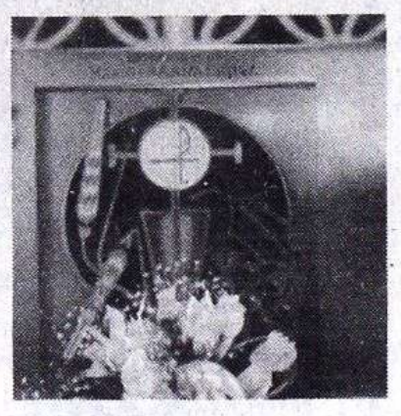
The detectives said pieces of the inside of the tabernacle were found in the snow and alter identified by church officials as part of the holy object.

They said they notified persons in the area who are engaged in the buying of silver and gold of the theft, requesting that they contact police with any information on the tabernacle.

The tabernacle was dedicated to St. Aloysius by the family of Mario and Ann Crova several years ago, Lindberg said.

Anyone with information on the stolen tabernacle is asked to call Lindberg or Pond at 721-2222.

"Orginally, the tabernacle cost about $700. Today, it's worth several thousand dollars," he said.



Romulus joins in convention planning

Although the Republican National Convention will be held in Detroit next summer, the weeks immediately prior to and during the enclave July 12-19 also will be important to the City of Romulus.

With many of the delegates and officials staying at motels on the fringes of Detroit Metropolitan Airport, the economy of Romulus is expected to get a substantial financial shot in the arm.

Benefitting most from the huge influx of visitors will be businesses, such as gasoline service stations, motels, restaurants, car rental firms, taxi companies and other local enterprises.

Preparing details for the GOP convention, which will pump millions of dollars into Detroit's lifestream, are 19 standing committees, each of which is finalizing plans for its own activities.

The standing committees and their chairmen are airport welcoming, Michael Berry, member of the Wayne County Road Commission which operates the airport; congressional host, ex-senator Robert P. Griffin and Congressman Carl D. Pursell; decorations, Charles T. Smith Jr. of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.; diplomatic corps and VIP hospitality, Joyce F. Garrett, director, Department of Public Information, City of Detroit; education and speakers bureau, David K. Easlick, Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; finance, Robert B. Evans Sr., Evans Industries Inc., and Frank D. Stella, vice-chairman; Governor's reception, William F. McLaughlin, director, Michigan Department of Commerce; hotel, Wayne S. Doran, president, Ford Motor Land Development; information booths, Paul S. Mirabito, Burroughs Corp.; labor, Robert Holmes Sr., International Brotherhood of Teamsters; press welcoming reception, Walter E. Douglas, New Detroit Inc.; program, Thomas B. Adams, Campbell-Ewald Inc.; restaurant, Charles A. Muer, C. A. Muer Corp.; retail and merchandising, Joseph L. Hudson Jr., Dayton-Hudson Corp.; special events, Robert E. McCabe, Detroit Renaissance Inc.; state delegation hospitality, Ranny Riecker, Republican national committeewoman from Michigan; transportation, Mary Fisher; watch, Roy Levy Williams, Detroit Urban League; and metro area coordinating council, directed by the host committee staff.

The host committee has designed a logo for convention souvenirs that has been copyrighted and has produced a 12-minute film on Detroit. The film, and a speaker, is available free to professional, social, civic, church or company groups. For additional information on the film, call 962-4660 and give the first available program date for your organization.

The film has been sent to GOP state chairmen across the nation, urging delegates to come to the convention early, stay late, and bring spouses and families along, too.

The special events committee is preparing a list of exhibits, tours, open houses, programs, festivals and other special events for July 5-11, Platform Week, the week before the convention begins.

Romulus will be among area suburbs whose entertainment facilities will be logged with the special events committee so that local hospitality chairmen can plan activities in those areas for visiting GOP delegates.

The importance of suburban involvement in hosting the Republican convention was stressed recently by Robert Carter, convention manager. He emphasized that about half of all hotel rooms committed to convention delegates and officials are located in suburban communities.

He suggested that suburbs, such as Romulus, decorate main business streets, erect storefront posters welcoming GOP delegates and provide informational material for booths in the various hotels.

Suburban municipalities, chambers of commerce, civic and cultural institutions, convention bureaus and local corporations have been invited to have their representatives join the coordinating council, the host committee's information exchange group. The council's next session will be at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 25 in the Veterans Memorial Building.

The convention's civic host committee boasts a new press relations department to provide information on Detroit and the State of Michigan, as well as assist news media representatives covering the convention next summer.

An estimated 6,000 media personnel, including 700 from foreign countries, are scheduled to cover the huge GOP convention. Some have

Things that matter: We can't go it alone

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

The safest prediction to make about religion in 1980 (maybe even in the 1980s as a whole) is that the charismatic movement will continue to grow.

We are, as social historian Martin Marty notes, "A generation given to taste, touch, see, feel, probe and experience."

We have lost much of our interest in "propositional theology" — reasoned, even, inspirational statements about God and Christ and the church.

The National Catholic Reporter calls the charismatic movement a "man-made response to the intense hungers which neither the established churches nor other social institutions have been very successful in satisfying."

What are those hungers?

They are a hunger for community, a hunger for commitment, a hunger for prayer, inner peace and answers.

The charismatic movement fills the hunger for community, suggests the Reporter, by "being ready to accept the new participant, praying over him for all things good and taking a personal interest in his life."

It satisfies a hunger for commitment by "calling its members to step outside a culture filled with materialism and cheap eroticism and to reject the idols of sex, wealth and personal ambition."

The praying charismatic finds "a new closeness to God, a direct communication."

The answers the movement provides include everything from "what God wants for His church in these times to what is proper clothing for women."

It is true that charismatic leaders speak of God's plan for us with a certainty which non-charismatics would be uncomfortable with.

Yet, frightening as this hunger for answers is ("remember Mussolini and Hitler ... and Jim Jones") it suggests that the demands of the "Me Decade" of the '70s, which practically insisted that everybody find his own meaning for life, were too wearying and too confusing — maybe even impossible — for great numbers of people.

For all their shortcomings, the leaders of the charismatic movement have hit on the truth that careerism, self-fulfillment, materialism and the American success syndrome do not offer the ultimate promise or purpose for living.

What makes these gods of the American pantheon false gods is the self-centeredness they breed — whereas the Good Life, in the words of a Wellesley College professor, "is a life of relationships and sharing."

Human fulfillment, Professor Harold Vanderpool hints, is different from self-fulfillment. Self-fulfillment may even cancel out human fulfillment if it gives second place to human companionship and the give-and-take of human relationships.

In his book, "I Ain't Well — But I Sure Am Better," Jess Lair describes what he calls "Mutual need therapy."

Lair, who says he developed his mutual need therapy after suffering three heart attacks, comments: "Our mutual need for each other and specifically for a certain few people — our feelings for these few intimate friends and our communication with them — helps us to find out who we are and gives us strength to make the most of that."

The Me Decade has taught us to be self-reliant so that we don't have to look to others for support.

In John Steinbeck's novel, "Cannery Row," a man commits suicide. And the man who sits contemplating his friend's death acknowledges that every man has a right to make his own decisions — even a decision to commit suicide.

"But," he adds in a half-reproach to himself, "sometimes a friend can make that unnecessary."

We need each other. This is a truth of the charismatic movements which even non-charismatics must learn if one culture is to survive.

It is relationships that count — intimate personal relationships between people and, on a higher level, an intimate personal relationship between us and God.

None of us can go it alone.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 16
READ PSALM 139: 1-12

"If I take my flight to the frontiers of the morning or dwell at the limit of the western sea, even there thy hand will meet me. (Psalm 139:0 NEB)

Living halfway around the world from my home and family, I am reminded of an experience more than 20 years in British Guiana (now the Republic of Guyana), South America.

One Sunday morning I worshiped with the Church of Scotland congregation in Georgetown. The next day I planned to fly by seaplane to a remote, virtually unknown part of the country, to be dropped off and left. The reading for that Sunday in the book of worship was beautiful. Imagine the impact on me when we read these words: "Regions unknown are safe to you when I, your friend, am there."

Today, surrounded by newfound Christian friends in the Philippines, I have no doubt that Jesus accompanies us everywhere. We can be just as certain that loved ones faraway are as much in His care as we are.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we are thankful for the fellowship of Your followers, no matter where we travel. Bless those relationships that bring Your people closer together.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: God is everywhere.

Over 1962 agreement

Sewer hookup suit stirs new dispute

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The Van Buren Township Board is finding itself on the horns of a dilemma in regard to the 7-year controversy over the request of a mobile home park developer to hook up to the nearby Ypsilanti sewage system.

The board's refusal to approve the hookup as ordered by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman last year landed them in the Wayne County Jail on two occasions, once for a day and then again for eight days.

The judge ordered the board's release when it agreed to abide by the final decision of the courts, but only after it had exhausted all possible legal avenues. The case is pending in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Now, a new ramification of the controversial case has cropped up that puts the board in the position of "damned if they do and damned if they don't".

Van Buren is one of 13 communities which signed a contract to pay for construction and operation of a sewage disposal plant in downriver Wyandotte in March 1962. Each member community pledged to send sewage generated in its confines through sewer lines to the Wyandotte sewage treatment facility.

But, the rub came when the other 12 communities in the pact sent letters early last year to Van Buren threatening to take action, if the township diverted a portion of its sewage through the Ypsilanti sewage treatment plant.

To find out just how the other 12 member communities actually feel about the matter, Van Buren Township Supervisor Pat Cullin called a meeting for Monday.

Letters sent from its member communities in the sewage contract, Cullin explained, said the pact would not allow Van Buren to divert part of its sewage flow to Ypsilanti unless all 12 remaining members consented to the action.

"I called the Monday meeting so Van Buren could determine what action the other 12 member communities of our downriver sewage contract would take if we finally were ordered by the courts to approve the sewer hookup for the mobile home developer," she said.

Van Buren's refusal to approve the sewer hookup, if the courts finally decide that they should, would land then in jail. Approval of the hookup could possibly land them in legal difficulties with the 12-member communities in the downriver sewage disposal contract.

To keep 62-year tradition alive

Alumnus work to keep school open

A group of concerned parents, interested community leaders and dedicated school alumnus, have a May 1980 deadline to meet in order to keep a 62-year-old tradition alive.

Those persons came last Wednesday to Monroe from more than 45 communities in and around the city of Monroe, the Detroit area proper, and the surrounding suburbs. Their firm goal: to continue a multi-denominational boys' resident and day school, the Hall of the Divine Child, which over the years has preserved a most unique style of educational ideals and philosophies in a semi-military atmosphere.

The school is located in the heart of Monroe, and is presently owned and operated by the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Congregation (IHM). The religious order announced the school's closing to be June 1980, since the ownership could not be continued by the order.

A spokesperson for the IHM Monroe-based order last July cited underlying circumstances for the closing, including a trend on the part of religious leaders to eliminate direct ownership of such properties.

Immediately following that announcement, a group of parents headed by Ralph Thayer, a Monroe businessman, began negotiations with the IHM Sisters to purchase the school and grounds to keep the tradition of grade school boys in blue uniforms, brass buttons and white gloves for future generations.

Thayer and the group have arrived at a purchase agreement with the IHM Sisters and are currently engaged in a fund-raising drive to keep the school open permanently.

The Hall of the Divine Child will accommodate up to 225 students on a weekday residence or commuter basis. A full curriculum of classwork, independent study, band and piano lessons, military drills and physical education, along with the cameraderie of dormitory life and sports programs is offered each boy.

Self-discipline and self-improvement are key features of the hall. Careful attention is given to the development of responsibility, courtesy and self-control within each student. Students are encouraged to achieve to the best of their individual ability in all areas of the academics and social skills. A modified military program encourages the students to learn and utilize leadership skills, provides motivation and instills various social values essential to adolescent development.

Although the school is Catholic-orientated, HDC accepts boys from every religion and ehtnic background.

The tuition has been structured to median-income parents and the present HDC Continuance group, including an IHM representative, will strive to keep that goal.

Presently, the group is seeking outside funding and grants availability, and aid from former students and those interested in preserving the tradition of this school, the only boys boarding school of its type in the State of Michigan.

Canton man killed in head-on crash

A 22-year-old Canton Township man was killed early Saturday morning in a head-on crash on Ecorse Road, just about a mile east of Wayne Road, in Romulus.

Dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital was Kennith O. Vaughan, who was alone in his compact station wagon at the time of the accident.

Lt. Don Smith of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said the driver of the second vehicle, a pickup truck, suffered minor injuries. He was identified as Michael D. Wheaton, 33, of Detroit.

Smith said the accident occurred about 2:40 a.m. as Vaughan was traveling east and Wheaton west on Ecorse Road. He said the case has been turned over to the detective bureau and that the investigation is continuing.

In insurance business

Father and son team up

Al Cicotte, a long-time resident of the Belleville-Van Buren Township area, this week opened a new office in Belleville specializing in life insurance, estate planning and financial planning.

Al, a former pitcher with the Detroit Tigers and several other major league teams, and his son, Al Cicotte Jr., have formed Al Cicotte and Associates, located at 35 Maln St.

The new firm will occupy Suite 101 in the front of the building, while Dr. Tom Troxell, the owner, is located in Suite 102 at the rear.

"Our long-range plans are to provide residents of the Belleville-Van Buren community with the best service available in the field of insurance and estate and financial planning," Cicotte said.

For the last 20 years, Al Cicotte and Associates had offices in Dearborn, More recently, the firm had operated out of the senior Cicotte's residence, pending remodeling of its new Belleville office. The firm has been in business for a quarter of a century.

Al has been a life and qualifying member of the $1,000,000 life insurance round table for 12 consecutive years.

Both father and son reside in Belleville, Al having lived here for the last 16 years. In addition to pitching for the Tigers, he also did duty for the New York Yankees, the St. Louis Cardinals and several other big league baseball teams.

Besides Al Jr., 24, Al and his wife, Dena, have four other children — Mary, 23, Greg, 20, Cliff, 16, and Bridgette, 9.

Al Cicotte and Associates will have a full-time receptionist at the new office quarters which Al describes as "plush" for the convenience and comfort of the firm's customers.

The new office is located on the west side of Main Street, just north of Five Points and across the street from the Belleville City Hall.

begun the task of familiarizing themselves with the Detroit area and suburbs. The press relations department will provide them with a professional source for news and information.

Directing the new department will be John R. Coxeter, vice-president of Carl Byoir & Associates, a national public relations firm that provided similar services to the national news media during the 1976 GOP convention in Kansas City.

Byoir recently won the Silver Anvil Award from the Public Relations Society of America for his handling of the image program for Detroit Renaissance Inc.

Romulus City hall switches to computerized phone unit

The city offices at Romulus City Hall have switched over to a new computerized telephone system that hopefully will save taxpayers about $40,000 over the next five years.

Late last year, the City Council approved the bid of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. for the new services. Although Michigan Bell's bid was roughly the same as that for a competitor, the council voted to go for Bell because it is a taxpayer in the city and has been a long-standing, reputable company, said Clerk Leonard J. Folmar.

Commenting on the new communications system, the clerk said, "In our continuing efforts to control the cost of government, the city will be cutting over to the new computerized telephone system. We hople to save $40,000 in the next five years."

The new system offers features that were not found on the older communications setup, the clerk noted. These include restriction of outgoing calls to those for city business, elimination of costly multi-button telephones, capacity to handle a greater volume of calls, keying in a code that will enable an incoming call to be automatically transferred to the location of the absent party, enable a second party to cut in and answer an incoming call for an absent employee, and ability to handle conference-type calls.

Romulus man charged in theft of candy bars

A Romulus man was scheduled for examination last week in Romulus 34th District Court on a charge of stealing several thousand bars of candy from a semi-trailer parked at a local motel.

Charged with larceny Dec. 17 is Jeffrey Claydon, 35, who police said allegedly was aided by two of his children and other juveniles in a taking the candy from a trailer parked at the Abbey Inn near Merriman Road and I-94.

Det. Don Cox of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said "excellent police work" by Officers Jim Leverette and Kenneth Laskaska resulted in Claydon's arrest the following day.

Police first were alerted by a neighbor of Claydon's who said he saw Claydon and the juveniles unloading boxes of candy from their car and carrying them in to the Claydon residence.

Although the neighbor has requested plainclothes officers, Leverette and Laskaska were on patrol nearby and answered the call.

After finding the semi-trailer broken into at the Abbey Inn, the officers notified Det. Cox. Cox and Det. Jim Chubb went to the informant's house the next day.

While there they discovered that Claydon and the juveniles, who reportedly had assisted him in taking the candy, were selling it door-to-door in the neighborhood.

Cox said questioning of Claydon's daughter revealed that her brothers had been selling the candy at Harrison and Wick Elementary schools in Romulus and at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. Further investigation disclosed that Claydon also reportedly sold the candy at his place of employment.

A search warrant enabled officers to search Claydon's home where officers recovered 35 boxes, containing 1,189 bars of candy. Cox said many of the bars sold were of the jumbo size and were being sold for 75 cents to $1 each.

Claydon stood mute at his court arraignment. A not guilty plea was entered for him by the judge.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP
BOARD MINUTES

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP REGULAR BOARD MEETING MINUTES — January 8, 1980 46425 Tyler Road Belleville, Michigan 48111

Supervisor Cullin called the meeting to order at 7:40 p.m. Pledge of Allegiance. Roll Call: Present: Supervisor Cullin, Clerk Craven, Treasurer York, Trustees: Maton, Domen, Hall and Welty. Also present: Engineers Levine and Partridge, Attorney James, Auditor Traskos, and Secretary Dudick. Approximately 15 interested citizens were in attendance.

Motion Maton, support Welty, to accept the minutes of the December 11, 1979 meeting as presented. CARRIED.

AUDIENCE: Richard Schroeder, 46755 Expressway, addressed the Board concerning the possibility of excavating the soil from the base of Belleville Lake to sell to raise funds. He feels this would improve navigation on the lake and provide a better environment for aquatic wildlife. Even if the lake is not lowered any further he would like the Board to research the possibility of excavating the already exposed bays.

After much discussion with interest in the project shown by the Board, Motion Hall, support York, to have the Township Engineers research the possibility of excavating the soil from the base of Belleville Lake, checking with the D.N.R. before proceeding. CARRIED.

Seeing no further questions from the audience, Supervisor Cullin closed the Audience portion of the meeting.

A letter from the Michigan Department of State, History Division, was read by Clerk Craven. On January 28, 1980, Mary Zimmeth of the State of Michigan Archives will meet with our Township Historian, Cathy Horste, at the Township Hall to survey public records of historical interest with the intent of preserving these records in the Michigan State Archives.

State Senator William Faust wrote thanking the Board for its support of the Grants and Transfers Appropriations Bill indicating that the Bill is now in Conference Committee.

Clerk Craven read a letter from Patricia Gors, Ordinance Department Head, thanking the Board for its support during her recent lengthy illness.

Supervisor Cullin read a letter of resignation from Emily Perri McClendon, Township Community Developer. Ms. McClendon has been offered a position to coordinate the replication of the French Landing Dam Project on a national basis by the Pro-Action Institute.

Motion Craven, support York, to accept the resignation of Emily McClendon. CARRIED.

Motion Hall, support Welty, to direct the Clerk to send a formal letter of thanks to Ms. McClendon for a job well done. CARRIED.

D.P.W. Department Head, Eugene Bracken, recommended to the Board, based on his research of the Bids received and opened at the last meeting, the Barfield Cleaning Service be hired for custodial services for the Township Hall Offices.

Motion Maton, support Craven, to accept the recommendation of Mr. Bracken and retain Barfield Custodial Service, having the Attorney draw up an agreement including the initial $200 charge for bringing the building up to standard.

Discussion followed the motion initiated by Trustee Domen's enquiry as to whether Barfield was the lowest bidder and if not, why the lowest bidder was not selected. He indicated that if the lower bidders met the specification then they should be given an opportunity to show whether their work would be satisfactory.

Mr. Bracken stated that his recommendation was based on the professional manner and experience of the Barfield Service. he was unable to contact one of the the lower bidders and he was told that the gentleman who had bid was at work. He felt that a full time professional company was the idea and intent of the Township for Custodial Services.

Clerk Craven made a Motion calling for the question, support Maton, Ayes: Craven, Maton and York. Nays: Domen, Hall, Welty and Cullin. Motion died for lack of support.

Discussion continued with Trustee Domen asking if Mr. Bracken could be more specific on his reasons for choosing Barfield. Trustee Hall asked if perhaps a written chart could be presented to the Board listing bids and specifications.

Mr. Bracken reiterated his reasons for having selected Barfield.

Supervisor Cullin asked if there were any further questions, hearing none, the questions was called for: MOTION CARRIED. (Trustee Domen voted nay.)

Engineer Levine presented a Report on the Huron Valley Wastewater System and the Sumpter-Van Buren Interceptor (Super Sewer). Auditor Traskos informed the Board that finances would not be available to the Township for the Sumpter-Van Buren Interceptor.

Supervisor Cullin discussed with the Auditor, his report, and stated that basically, Van Buren could not afford the additional CFS of the Sumpter-Van Buren Arm. The population is not sufficient at this time to help pay for that kind of interest and bond payments. She recommends that the Sumpter-Van Buren Arm be dropped.

Motion Welty, support Maton, to approve the Huron Valley Wastewater Agreement with the additions inserted indicating that we will only be purchasing 10 CFS in the Hannan Road Arm and will be dropping the Sumpter Arm. CARRIED.

Motion Craven, support York, to purchase one voice communication beeper system for the use of the Dog Warden. CARRIED.

Motion Domen, support Hall, to pay the Sanitary Sewer Evaluation Survey Invoice No. 9 as presented. CARRIED.

Motion Maton, support Welty, to approve the purchase of the Chevrolet ¾ Ton Pick Up as recommended by Water Department Head John Cottrill. CARRIED.

Auditor Traskos reported on the 1980 CETA Allocations stating that the new regulations make it very difficult for Van Buren to qualify. One half of the '80 allocation would have to be for special projects.

Supervisor Cullin indicated that with all the new regulations the program has become too costly and time-consuming and was no longer productive for the Township. She recommended that the program be phased out.

Motion Hall, support Maton, to allow the CETA program to phase out when the last of the on board participants time has lapsed. CARRIED.

Motion Welty, support Craven, to table the request of the Lake Commission to develop a code covering shoreline structures along Belleville Lake for further information. CARRIED.

Motion Hall, support Welty, to table the Resolution to Wayne County Public Works designating Engineers for referral to the Attorney. CARRIED.

Motion Craven, support Welty, to adopt the Resolution authorizing full application for a Land & Water Conservation Grant. CARRIED.

Motion Hall, support Craven, to retain Brandon Rogers, Planning Consultant, for the Land & Water Conservation Grant. CARRIED.

Attorney James reported that no word has been received regarding the El-Chonen Case and that facts and testimony are being gathered to go back to Court on the matter of Wayne County Road Commission stopping the draw down of Belleville Lake.

Engineer Levine reported that the Hannan Road Water Line as agreed upon by the Board a few months ago will proceed. Romulus has received an affirmative answer for the financing from a local manufacturing company of 50 percent with Romulus paying 25 percent and Van Buren the remaining 25 percent.

Due to increased regulations stipulated by Wayne County the sidewalk to the overpass will either cost an additional $22,000 or the project will be cut and the walk will end at the southern end of Juniper Drive. Engineer Levine, as instructed by the Supervisor, has contacted the State of Michigan and informed them that no additional funds are available for this project and the shortening of the sidewalk is acceptable.

Motion Hall, support Maton, to approve the Water & Sewer and General Fund Vouchers as presented. CARRIED.

Motion Maton, support Welty, to receive and file the reports as presented. CARRIED.

Supervisor Cullin reported that the results of the State Boundary Commission Meeting that was held at Van Buren Township Hall today indicate that basically the whole process of Consolidation for Van Buren and City of Belleville would take six years if it went to completion.

Clerk Craven asked the Board for direction concerning the Report filed by Rachel Badanowski. She stated that she had been directed by the Supervisor to pay Rachel for the hours submitted but could find no record of the Board having approved such payment of wages for inspecting the property surrounding the lake. Aproval had been given for purchasing film and reimbursement to Tom Kelly for gasoline used in lake inspection.

Supervisor Cullin explained that she had specifically asked Rachel to do the lake inspection and she also tests the water and that she had discussed the payment with several members of the Board but she did not remember it being on the agenda as such but she would like to recommend that the Township definitely pay her.

Tom Kelly, from the audience, stated that he had been taking pictures of the lake property, donating his time, and if Rachel is going to be paid for it, would he be paid also?

Emily McClendon stated that she did not think it was fair to all the others who had donated their time on the Hot Line and with other problems concerning the lake if one person were paid.

After much discussion by the Board and the audience Trustee Hall made a motion, supported by Clerk Craven, to ask Rachel Badanowski to submit a bill for gas and any other expenses to the Board, at which time the Board will take it under consideration. CARRIED.

Clerk Craven announced the following trips sponsored by the Van Buren Recreation Department. January 26, 1980 a Ski Trip to Pine Knob, on February 29, 1980 a trip to the Fisher Theater to see "Ain't Misbehavin," and on March 27, 1980 a trip to the HushPuppy Factory. For further information contact the Van Buren Recreation Department.

It was announced that John Cottrill has been granted certification as a water distribution plant operator (S-2).

A meeting will be held at Van Buren Township Hall on January 24, 1980 by the Huron Valley Watershed Council at 7:30 P.M.

Motion Hall, support Maton to adjourn. CARRIED.

Meeting adjourned 9:45 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,
Doreen Craven, Clerk

Students rights explained

If a school district requires all girls with a certain hair length to wear a bathing cap in swim classes, it also must require all boys with the same hair length to wear a bathing cap.

That example is being used to illustrate a point in a new State Board of Education publication released today entitled, "A Student Guide to Title IX." The point is that under Title IX of the federal Education Amendments Act of 1972, all students discriminating on the basis of sex.

The guide, which explains student rights and responsibilities under Title IX, also informs students that the law requires districts to have a Title IX coordinator who will be in charge of protecting their rights.

Under the law, the guide states, all students have the right to:

—Take any classes they wish and to be treated equally in those classes. If a science department is offering an enrichment program after school, both boys and girls are eligible to participate.

—Attend co-education classes. There are just a few exceptions—girls and boys may be separated when parts of a class deal with human sexuality, when students in music classes are grouped by vocal range, when parts of a gym class involve bodily contact and when parts of a gym class require students to be grouped together by ability, resulting in only boys and girls being in such groups.

—Equal counseling and placement services. Title IX guarantees that all students receive the same vocational training opportunities, the same scholarship and financial aid information and the same testing and evaluation services.

—Be treated equally. If a school has no smoking rule, and it is broken, both boys and girls must be punished in the same way.

—Participate fully in athletics, intramural programs and club sports. A school district has three choices under the law on how it will run an athletic program and what sports will be offered to students. It can choose to offer all separate teams for girls and boys, or co-education teams or a combination of separate and co-education teams. Whatever way a district decides to run its athletic program, the interests and abilities of both boys and girls must be served.

School districts that choose to offer separate teams must have comparable programs. The girls' and boys' teams must have comparable equipment, supplies, uniforms, coaching and tutoring, medical services, locker rooms and use of the gym, to name a few.

The guide states that if a student believes his or her rights have been violated, one of the student's first responsibilities is to discuss the matter with the Title IX coordinator, or school principal.

While a student has the right to an education free of sex discrimination, as a young adult he or she also has a responsibility to act fairly, honestly and reasonably in exercising that right, the guide states.

If a student believes there is sex discrimination at his or her school, the guide urges the student to remember that actions, practices and policies in school that contribute to sex discrimination are not intentional.

"They result from a long history of social attitudes and people's feelings that the sexes ought to be treated differently," the guide states. "People are often not aware that what they may be saying or doing is against the law or biased against one sex. They just have not thought about it too much."

More information on Title IX and a limited number of copies of the student guide are available from the Michigan Department of Education Office of Sex Equity in Education, P.O. Box 30008, Lansing 48909.

State and federal funding finances energy aid plan

As home heating costs continue to rise, it becomes more difficult for low-income and senior citizens to pay the highh price necessary to keep warm.

This winter Michigan has more than $100 million of state and federal funds available for various energy asistance programs. Low-income persons having problems paying home heating bills, may be eligible for individual financial assistance, tax credits, or a variety of other services.

The Michigan Department of Labor and the 30 local based Community Action Agencies are operating the Energy Crisis Assistance Program (ECAP) and the home weatherization program. The Energy Crisis Assistance Program has approximately $19 million available to low-income households for payment of heating fuel-utility bills. Eligible households may receive from $280 to $400 of assistance paid directly to their utility company or fuel suppliers.

Under ECAP, an eligible household in the Upper Peninsula, for example, which heats with fuel oil would receive the maximum $400, while a natural gas customer in the southern lower peninsula would receive the $280 minimum.

The Community Action Agencies also operate the home weatherization program, which will provide approximately $30 million over the next 12 months, to help conserve energy and lower heating costs by weatherizing homes. This program provides insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and other weatherization related repairs. Eligible low-income homeowners and renters may receive up to $1,000 in services and materials.

The Department of Social Services operates two programs to assist low-income people in meeting their energy costs. The Emergency Needs Program (ENP) provides assistance to families who are being threatened with shut-off or have had their utilities shut off. The Volunteer Heating Fuel budget plan program (VHF) operated by the Department of Social Services, provides Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) with financial assistance and budget planning assistance. VHF will pay up to $300 in back bills and will pay the difference between the budget payment and the actual cost.

Only clients who are Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. customers in Wayne, Kent and Muskegon counties are eligible for VHF services.

People who may not qualify for the above named programs may qualify for home heating tax credit. The Michigan home heating tax credit is based on 1979 personal income and the number of exemptions claimed on a state tax return, not on the amount or type of energy used. The amount of credit varies, but generally, the lower the income and the more exemptions claimed, the greater the credit. Senior citizens, age 65 and over, are allowed a double exemption on the state income tax.

The Michigan Office of Services to the Aging operates a home repair program for senior citizens, age 60 and older. Also, senior citizens, age 60 and over, who are customers of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., are protected from shut-off due to inability to pay their Michigan Consolidated bill, from Nov. 15, 1979 to April 15, 1980.

Anyone seeking further information about energy programs and how to contact local agencies administering them, can call the toll-free energy hotline 1-800-292-4704. The Energy Administration, Michigan Department of Commerce, which operates the hotline, also has free up-to-date Energy Financial Assistance Directory and information about energy saving ideas.

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,800

NILES, Ill. – The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wisc., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate . . . which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A39803, 9301 N. Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Illinois 60648. A postcard will do.

Sietz initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta

Belleville resident Rita Sietz of Sumpter Road was among 120 Western Michigan University students to be initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta national honor society for first-year students.

To be eligible Ms. Sietz had to register for a full course of study, leading to a bachelor's degree, and receive grades of 3.5 or better during her first semester.

The initiation was held Dec. 8.

Also on the college scene:

Belleville resident Michael A. Kotlarczyk has been named to the honor roll at Lawrence Institute of Technology for the fall session. To be named to the honor roll he had to have a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

A graduate of Romulus Senior High School, Jeri B. Grimm of Southgate currently is a first-year student in the physician's assistant program at Mercy College of Detroit.

The program leads to a bachelor of science degree and will prepare Ms. Grimm as a mid-level practitioner, who will assit primary care physicians in their medical work.

Three area residents were honor graduates at the recent commencement ceremony at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Collecting degrees Dec. 16 were Amy J. Cronenwett of Carleton, bachelor of science degree magna cum laude; Jeanne A. Wickenheiser of Carleton, bachelor of business administration degree magna cum laude; and Glenn D. Suemnick of New Boston, bachelor of business administration cum laude.

Also receiving degrees were Thomas Emerick of Carleton, bachelor of business administration; Linda Koger of Belleville, bachelor of business administration; Laurita Koski of Belleville, bachelor of business administration; Jewel Nolan of Belleville; bachelor of science; Mark Wisniewski of Belleville, bachelor of business administration; and Jamie Pardeike of New Boston, bachelor of science.

To achieve Dean List recognition, she had to earn a 3.0 point grade average or better on a 4.0 scale.

Ruth O'Brien, a senior majoring in business administration at Humbolt State University in Arcata, Calif., will be included in the 1979-80 addition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and College."

Ms. O'Brien was selected for the honor based on her academic achievement, community service and leadership.

Belt buy will aid olympics

Snowmobilers packing an extra drive belt this winter can get a souvenir of the 1980 Olympic Winter Games in the process.

Goodyear is offering through most dealers a free snow hat featuring the official patch of the XIII Olympic Games at lake Placid, N.Y., with the purchase of two Goodyear high performance snowmobile drive belts.

The hat combines the Winter Olympic colors of blue, red and white with the familiar Goodyear wingfoot logo. Some hats with similar Winter Olympic identification retail for as much as $8.

An extra drive belt and the necessary tools for installation should be carried in snowmobiles like a spare tire is in a car, said Auggie Fields, Goodyear's marketing manager for Automotive Replacement Products.

Goodyear, a major supplier of drive belts and tracks for snowmobiles, estimates the average machine will use almost two belts per year.

Fields said the drive belt should be checked regularly for proper sheave alignment, belt tension and correct belt size. Cord popout and excessive wear on one side of the belt indicate that sheaves are not properly aligned.

A belt that has a burnt or glazed appearance or a top width that is badly worn is probably slipping. The major causes of belt slippage are driver abuse, excessive engine idle speed or a wrong sized belt.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP

PUBLIC HEARING

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP PUBLIC HEARING - January 8, 1980 - Community Development Block Grant - 46425 Tyler Road - Belleville, Michigan.

Meeting called to order at 7:05 by Supervisor Cullin with the explanation that this meeting is for input from the community as to where they feel the needs are for these Grant monies.

Alton M. Shelly from the Romulus Health Center requested the Board to consider payment of $3000 to the Romulus Health Center for the services rendered to Van Buren Senior Citizens in minor home repairs and homemaking services. During October 1, 1978 - September 30, 1979, 103 Van Buren seniors were served through this program (17 percent of the total number served by the agency during that period)

Supervisor Cullin questioned the method of determining the amount of the request and whether or not the other communities will be receiving similar requests from the Center.

Mr. Shelly explained that in the past, funding was received from the Wayne County Community Block Grant and that this funding was in doubt, therefore all the Communities being served will be asked to consider contributing to the Center based on the ratio of seniors served from their community.

Supervisor Cullin thanked Mr. Shelly for his presentation and said the Board would take his request into consideration.

Brad Traskos, Assistant Fire Chief from Station No. 1, requested that the Board consider using some of the Block Grant monies to purchase land in the South end of the Township for a new Fire Station. The request is based on the response time for firemen from that area. Traffic congestion in the City limits precludes the firemen from reaching the Station, thereby increasing the response time for fire calls.

Clerk Craven added that this request is in compliance with the regulations governing the use of Block Grant monies.

Emily McClendon, Community Developer, elaborated on the acceptability of this request plus Mr. Shelly's request stating that any public services, as opposed to actual physical construction, such as housing rehabilitation, must be done in one of the areas that directly serves one of the Townships designated Strategy Areas.

Supervisor Cullin thanked Mr. Traskos for his presentation and stated that some time ago, a citizen indicated to her that he would donate land to the Township if they were interested in a Fire Station on the South side of town and that she would get in contact with that person.

Hearing no other citizen wishing to speak at the Public Hearing, Supervisor Cullin closed the meeting.

Meeting adjourned at 7:25 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,
Doreen Craven, Clerk

Turner assumes county commission chairmanship

Samuel A. Turner, a Detroit attorney, is the new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and the successor to Richard E. Manning of Redford, another lawyer.

Turner is serving his fourth 2-year term on the board and has been chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for the past three years. Ways and Means is generally regarded the most important county commission committee because it considers all matters involving expenditure and consists of all 27 members of the board.

The election by his colleagues was Jan. 3, the first meeting of the new year and always the first order of business each year. Both the chairman and vice-chairman are chosen for 1-year terms.

Clemens E. Bykowski, also of Detroit, was named vice-chairman during the same meeting. Each won by a 14-9 vote, with 14 votes the necessary majority. Nominated by Commissioner Thomas Presnell of Westland, Manning was Turner's only competition, and Presnell was Bykowski's only opponent. Presnell was nominated by Commissioner James J. Rashid of Dearborn.

Bykowski is retired from the Detroit police force and is in his third term on the county board. He is a current member and former chairman of the General Government Committee.

Besides serving as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Turner also is a member of the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee and chairman of the Financial Crisis and Corrections Committees, as well as a delegate to SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

With SEMCOG, he has served on the Executive Committee, Finance and Budget Committee, General Assembly Committee and the Legislative Committee. In addition, he is former chairman of the County Board of Institutions, the governing body of the County General Hospital.

Turner after the meeting said he would concentrate on unification of the board and the elimination of friction between Detroit and out-county faction. He said most differences between the two areas are imaginary and that he expects cooperation and support from all sides to resolve county problems.

Nevertheless, Turner emphasized that he did not expect an easy job seeking solutions for an $18 million deficit along with past reluctance from Gov. William G. Milliken and some members of the legislature. He was referring to demands on county re-organization that have caused withholding of funds from the county during periods of critical financial distress.

Emphasizing that 1980 will be a difficult year for him to preside, Turner said: "He who wears the crown also wears a shaky hat." He pointed out that a major part of what he considers a serious economic recession has gone unnoticed but will become visible with closing of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge Main assembly plant.

Turner said he will rely heavily on the loyalty of county employees and the better cooperation he hopes to arrange with Milliken.

"Our most important resource is people, and they have demonstrated their loyalty by continuing to work even after payless paydays. With that kind of dedication, I expect that this time next year we will be in a far better position."

Milliken must cooperate to help the county receive more revenue because additional employee layoffs or reduction of public services would not solve the financial problem, Turner said adding: "Besides employee efficiency, the major job is to get more revenue, and as soon as possible I want to sit down with the governor on this issue."

He expects Milliken to realize that the county is unable to further cut its staff, a reference to past months of eliminating job slots and a prohibition of hiring.

He claimed that the most important chore for the county in 1980 is for the board and employees to "work together as a unit. Even if we don't have money, we can work as a team in harmony to insure the best public interest," Turner insisted.

Turner, 53 and a graduate of both Morehouse College in Atlanta and Wayne State University, represents District 13 in northwest Detroit.

EMU's Continuing Education unit to hold cost awareness seminar

A cost awareness and production control workshop for construction supervisors, designed to provide helpful tips on how to improve efficiency on construction projects, will be offered by Eastern Michigan University's Division of Continuing Education at Plymouth-Canton High School, beginning later this month.

The course will be held Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. through March 26. The workshop is co-sponsored by the Detroit and Michigan chapters of the Associated General Contractors of America and the Washtenaw Contractors Association.

Titled "Cost Awareness and Production Control," the workshop consists of 10 2-hour sessions, designed especially for construction managers, supervisors, project managers, trades foremen and those directly responsible for cost and production control. Informal sessions will include discussions, exercises and written course work directed by John Weeks, an associate professor in the Department of Industrial Technology and Industrial Education at EMU.

Some of the highlights of the construction workshop are sessions on the "construction cycle," estimates, estimate breakdowns, work and cost analysis, and reporting and cost comparisons. Short interval production schedules, production control and evaluation of projects also will be covered.

The goals of the project include:
— Training to improve performance and cut time spent on projects.
— Training to improve labor relations and help avoid costly mistakes.
— Training to save loss of time, material and equipment expense.
— Training to avoid being undertrained.

Editorial opinions

Salaries

The recent Romulus City Council decision to defer a 6 percent pay increase recommended by that city's pay board, points up a growing problem faced by municipal government and its servants.

Pressed by inflation on one hand, and the voter on the other, today's elected officials must walk a tightrope to make ends meet.

While the problem affects all officials in government, it is more severe for those who must provide their services on a full-time basis.

In Romulus, Mayor William Oakley, a successful custom home builder before his election to the mayor's job, took a substantial pay cut to serve his community.

While he has not complained about the situation, it is obvious that he is worth considerably more than his present $22,000 salary.

The ultimate risk a community must assume when it loses sight of reality relative to the salaries it sets for its public officials, is the risk that competent people will no longer be willing to become involved if the cost to them for that service is too great.

Due in part to the poor credibility of today's elected officials, many citizens are convinced they could handle the responsibilities of elected office as well, or better, than those holding office.

While that premise may be true in some cases, it is not generally true that even a skilled tradesman, earning in excess of $15 per hour, could walk into city hall and take over its operation. But most likely, it is that same tradesman who objects the loudest to any salary increase for elected officials.

We believe it is time for the citizen to urge fair salaries for elected officials. But those officials should be forced to vote on those increases themselves rather than hide behind the faceless pay boards throughout this area.

Chrysler

For many, the concept of Chrysler Corporation qualifying for a Small Business Administration loan is difficult to comprehend. But Chrysler does indeed qualify.

The question should now be, should it qualify, when so many true small businesses could use some of the money Chrysler will be receiving from the government.

The Chrysler situation agains points up the fact that rules, are and were, made to break if you have the political clout to manage that task.

And therin lies the real problem.

The high visibility industry, employing thousands, manages to gain the support of the taxpayers while the small operation, employing only a hundred or so, must fold up its tent when times get tough.

If the intent of the Small Business Administration is to pump up small business, that is what it should do.

If government wishes to pump up big business, the feds should create a Big Business Administration. At least then, all of us will know what the rules of the game really are.

Chrysler needed help. The government-you and I-provided that help.

We should work to see that every employee in this country, whether working for a large or small company, has the benefit of federal help if needed to protect his or her job.

The word games have been played too long.

To our readers:

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

'Bucking' up Chrysler

By CARL LEVIN
U.S. Senator

President Carter's signing of a bill authorizing $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees for the Chrysler Corporation capped about six months of struggle by those of us trying to help the No. 3 carmaker survive. Unfortunately, Chrysler's struggle is still not over.

The Chrysler aid bill passed by the Congress and signed by the President was a major step toward rescue of the corporation and the 500,000 employees who directly or indirectly owe their livelihoods to Chrysler.

It is a-$3.5 billion package.

The legislation allows the federal government to back $1.5 billion in loans for Chrysler and it requires the company to gain an additional $1.43 billion in concession from banks, suppliers and dealers.

The United Auto Workers will be required to give up $462.5 million of the $1.3 billion in pay raises that the union negotiated last year in a three-year contract. One hundred twenty-five million dollars must be contributed by Chrysler management.

The labor provision, which will cost the average UAW worker $4,600 over the course of the contract, was the key to passage of the legislation. The bill takes a disproportionate share out of the hide of the workers. But it ws the best we could get.

This package, approved finally on a House vote of 241 to 124 and an Senate vote of 43 to 34, does not include a provision that I considered important to Chrysler financing.

My amendment would have provided $500 million in guarantees for loans that Chrysler may need to bridge the financing gap between Congressional approval of the plan and the time that Chrysler actually gets the money produced under the plan.

Under the "bridge loan" amendment, Chrysler would have been required to pay back the money it received under this interim arrangement before it could receive any other federal loan guarantees. It would have been fully collateralized with no risk of loss to the government.

The bridge loan merely would have insured that Chrysler would not fall while we are building the structure to keep it up.

The amendment failed, but those of us who favored this provision ultimately prevailed. Without admitting to the common sense logic of providing a bridge loan, the House and Senate members who conferred to produce the final Chrysler aid package agreed to bill language that seems to assure interim financing. And Treasury Secretary William Miller assured Congressional supporters of this plan that the government would cooperate in every way to help Chrysler find interim financing, if needed.

The Senators in the conference accepted the House's language allowing Chrysler to draw earlier on its federal loan guarantees that it could have under Senate requirements.

But Chrysler has not been saved yet.

The U.S. government still must be satisfied that it is living up to its side of the bargain before one dime is delivered to the corporation under the federal loan guarantee provisions.

And, much more importantly, our world and national economy and the energy situation must be stable and strong enough to allow Chrysler to survive.

The rocking and reeling economy and the escalating costs and shortages of gasoline have shaken even the auto giant, General Motors.

Chrysler, which is expected to report more than $1 billion in losses for 1979, is like a pneumonia patient trying to weather a winter storm.

I believe Chrysler has the fortitude to make it.

With the respected Lee Iaccoca at the helm, the Chrysler management has the skill and initiative to increase its share of the auto market and show that it can respond to the changing pressures of the market.

Chrysler's cars already get the best mileage, and the company is reshaping its facilities to better meet the demands of the buyers.

The aid that has been provided by the Congress will give Chrysler the cash that it needs to meet those demands.

If the company had been allowed to go into bankruptcy, it would have staggered and fallen. The nation and Michigan would have suffered severe repercussions.

There would be a $5-10 billion loss to the Treasury if Chrysler failed. If that were the case, the Chrysler aid bill wouldn't be a Chrysler bail out but a Treasury bail out.

Congress came to understand this and moved to save Chrysler.

Despite all of the political posturing that sometimes takes place, the men and women who represent the people of the United States in Congress usually act in the best interests of the nation in the final test.

And helping Chrysler Corporation was in the best interests of this nation.

CUFA—a sick bird

By DENNIS FASSETT
ANP Managing Editor

CUFA-CUFA-CUFA.

Not the wail of an injured bird as some would have you believe, but rather the now infamous governmental agency mired in controversy.

Last week in a quick afternoon sweep, the FBI moved into the Taylor offices of CUFA, Communities United for Action, and secured the Community Services Agency's financial records.

The goal of the federal investigators was to look into the possibility that several CUFA officials were involved in an underhanded scheme to defraud the taxpayers of our country of funds earmarked for the low income, handicapped, and senior citizens.

Ironic!

Ironic, not because the investigation was unnecessary. Ironic, not because ample evidence was lacking to support the probe. And ironic not because hundreds of people have been urging such an investigation, but ironic that it did not come before this time.

CUFA, established in 1971, and audited yearly by certified public accountants hired by the agency, has consistently failed to meet the most basic requirements for compliance with federal guidelines. Year after year, auditors complained about the slip-shod accounting practices employed by CUFA, but the auditors' warnings fell on deaf federal ears.

Or perhaps those federal ears were so stuffed with our greenbacks that they just couldn't hear.

For years, local citizens involved in and on the fringes of CUFA, listed violation after violation, but neither the parent federal funding agency for CUFA — The Community Services Administration — or the Michigan CUFA monitoring agency — Bureau of Community Services — ever found the time to look into the charges, which if true, could have been costing the citizens of Michiga millions of dollars.

Well, last week, partially in response to a series of articles published in these newspapers and authored by Staff Writer Carrie Young and myself, the FBI and the federal government finally managed to move.

And of even more surprise, CUFA Board Chairman William McGill, the same fellow who refused to cooperate at all with these newspapers during our investigation leading up to the recent series, also finally moved. He suspended four CUFA officials now under investigation for 'double dipping.' One of those officials is newly installed CUFA Executive Director Mrs. Jean Conyers, formally of Terre Haute, Indiana.

Mrs. Conyers, fired from her executive directorship of an agency similar to CUFA in Terre Haute, for irregularities, was hired by the same McGill less than two months after her termination, and no one is yet able to understand how she managed to land the top job in Wayne County.

Any logical person would conclude that the government would be very interested in having these problems resolved. They are. But the federal perception of what the problem is may vary a little from yours and mine.

Rather than grasp at an opportunity to correct CUFA's problems, the feds and Michigan monitoring officials censured their employees who had had the courage to talk to us.

Apparently, the bureaucratic mind believes that if you don't talk about it, the problem will go away.

Well finally, ten years and ten critical audit reports later, something may be done to halt the obscene waste of the taxpayers' money. But the FBI cannot insure that the same abuses will not soon return.

And since only the federal government's funding agencies could accomplish that task, and since they allowed the CUFA problems to develop in the first place, it is likely nothing will change. Only the faces at CUFA will change. Only the names of those ripping off the taxpayers will change.

And in the meantime, people targeted for help from CUFA-type agencies, continue to go without it.

The illegal rich get richer. The poor get poorer, and only the federal government remains the same: Incompetent!

How old is old?

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

I had been sitting with my head buried in my hands and my elbows on the typewriter, waiting for the muse to strike, when the front door banged open and two little whirlwinds came breezing up the stairs.

"Hi Grandma, we're here because we have to wait for mama here."

"What you doin' Grandma?"

"I'm trying to write," I answered.

"Are you going to write about me?" Mike asked tossing his blond hair out of his eyes and grinning his gamin grin.

"I don't know. Say something funny!"

His eyes seemed to go inside of him and he chewed his tongue in intense concentration.

"Brrrrrrrrr, it's cold outside," came Uncle Gunnar's voice from the hall.

Mike's face lit up. His eyes came alive and the gamin grin danced wickedly on his face.

"I know something funny," he shrieked.

"What?"

"Uncle Gunnar's old!" This struck him as the funniest thing he had ever said, and he rolled on the floor, hugging himself in glee.

Uncle Gunnar didn't think that was so funny.

"How old is old?" I asked the kid.

"How old is Uncle Gunnar?"

"Sixty-nine."

"That's how old old is," he howled and rolled around some more on the floor. Uncle Gunnar snorted from the doorway. Immediately Mike jumped to his feet, and his blue eyes stared at his great uncle through the blond hair falling on his forehead.

"Aaaaaah," he said gently. "Uncle Gunnar is kind of old, but he's my buddy. He plays War with me." And he went over to his great uncle and wrapped his skinny little arms around the elderly uncle.

"Heh, heh, heh," said Uncle Gunnar while he hugged the little kid close to him. Finally the two unwrapped from each other and the uncle went on down the hall to his room.

"You're really not old, Uncle Gunnar," the eight year old called after him, and then turning around he walked back to my desk. Standing before me he stared at me and then at the typewriter.

"You shouldn't tell old people they're old, should you, Grandma? That's why I let Uncle Gunnar beat me at War, so's he won't know he's so old."

I guess Mike answered his own question, when he leaned over my desk and asked if I were going to write about him!

Resignations

Dear Bob Law:

The constituency of the 36th district, especially the senior citizens, are saddened by your decision to resign from the Michigan Legislature.

You have received many awards from different organizations for being an outstanding legislator. You have been a dedicated and conscientious servant of the people in your district.

You were a real problem solver for senior citizens. We appreciated this and are grateful for all you have done.

The 36th district has never had a legislator of your caliber.

Whatever your plans for the future may be, we wish you the best. You will be missed but not forgotten.

A salute

Editor:

January 20-26, 1980 has been proclaimed National Jaycee Week. The purpose of the week is to focus attention on the young men who are members and the work they are doing in our community.

The Wayne Jaycettes would like to salute the Wayne Jaycees during their special week. This is a very fine group of young men. They are a vital service organization in Wayne, and the Jaycettes are proud to be affiliated with them.

Last year the Wayne Jaycees donated a tremendous amount of money to the National Institute for Burns, medicine, Muscular Dystrophy, the handicapped, underprivileged, Senior Citizens and many other charities.

The Jaycee's annual Haunted House provided entertainment for the people of Wayne and surrounding areas during Halloween. The Jaycees will again have an Easter Egg Hunt, participate in the Fishing Derby, as well as many, many more community projects.

Jaycees of Wayne, job well done! Keep up the good work.

Carol Glass, President
Wayne Jaycettes

Editor's Note:

We would like to go on record in supporting the kind comments about the Jaycees of Wayne. From the Christmas Parade to the Meet the Candidates Nights they have sponsored, this community owes them a well deserved pat on the back.

Thank you, Cory

Editor:

Upon reading the newest Jaycee's journal I did not see a thank you note of appreciation to Cory Dunn. Cory was asked to make the new Santa Claus suit. Well she took the time to go all over the place to find the right materials — belt buckle and other things, spent hours of sewing time on this suit. This wasn't an easy job considering she has two preschoolers also.

Also, all this was without pay.

The Santa looked beautiful in the parade at Santaland. A beautiful job Cory, and may you be rewarded some day for all the nice things that you do for people.

Thanks

Editor:

The citizenry of Wayne Tower, one and all, convey their most humble and grateful thanks.

First, to Dennis Fassett, ANP managing editor of our Wayne Eagle and Associated Newspapers, for his trusted and reliable expertise in relating issues as they really are.

What would the City of Wayne be without The E-A-G-L-E?

Next, our gratitude to the past City Council under the administration of the beloved Hon. Mayor Paul Lada, where our petitions started and successfully attained to free bus travel on S-E-M-T-A.

After that, petitions arose for bus shelters and a bus-boarding zone on Northwest Michigan Ave. For the convenience of the elderly.

A Commission on Aging was also born. The presentation of repetitions to our newly-elected City Council, under the capable leadership of our Hon. Mayor Patrick J. Norton, assisted by City Manager, Patrick J. Cullen, has culminated in our second success.

We owe too, our grateful appreciation to Larry E. Salci, Gen. Mgr., S-E-M-T-A, Rachel Shrauner and her assistant Robert L. Pryor, department schedules, operations, plans and evaluations, for including Wayne in their massive expansion plan.

To our bus operators, 'Thanks' for patience and courtesies!

Blessings of The Eternal Upon All!

Commisson on Aging, City of Wayne

Editor:

It was with both shock and dismay that I learned of the resignation of Associated's Managing Editor Dennis Fassett.

While I certainly wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors, I cannot help but wonder what the Eagle will be like without his involvement.

As a regular reader of this paper, I have witnessed with much appreciation the improvements Mr. Fassett has brought to his and my local newspaper.

I have known Dennis for many years. His involvement in local affairs before joining the Eagle staff, provided him with a unique perspective on the community, a perspective not seen before in these papers.

I would like to take just this small space to thank Dennis Fassett for his contribution to his community, and his local newspaper. He was always willing to work to move his city forward. For that alone we owe him our appreciation. But he also has now provided us with a legacy that will go on.

The Eagle is once again a fine newspaper. And that in large part we owe to him.

Good luck Dennis, and thanks again.

I would like to take this opportunity to express appreciation for the media coverage which ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS provided Wayne County General Hospital and its unique event, "A Christmas Party for the Newborn Intensive Care Unit 'Graduates'" which was held on December 5, 1979.

Your coverage enabled us to share this event with many surrounding communities.

The Christmas party-reunion was a huge success and demonstrated the "humaneness" of a hospital staff's continued concern for the patients they care for.

Thanks again for your assistance in publicizing this event.

Bah humbug!

Editor:

Christmas Eve 1979.

Everything is in order — I hope. Almost time for Church Services, but first, the annual ride to see the beautiful outside decorations and the new City decorations on Main St. No snow (matter of fact rain!) but still BEAUTIFUL.

Time to tour one of the prettier streets E. Huron River Drive — so many affluent homes. I was appalled to see that so many residents had already put their trash out. I even saw an old hot water heater!

Christmas would be the next day, so surely there wouldn't be trash pick up the next morning. Isn't there a city ordinance that trash not be put out until the morning of trash pick up? Or, no sooner than the night before!! If there isn't, there ought to be! Bah humbug to these people.

I am writing to thank you for printing the letter from Bessie Westfall of Visalia, California who was trying to locate me in reference to the World of Poetry Contest.

I saw the letter in your paper and wrote to Mrs. Westfall. I have just had a letter back from her, and she wished to express her gratitude to you for printing her letter. She commented on how nice it was of newspapers to help people out like this.

By the way she and I have both received our checks from the World of Poetry and the contest was a legitimate one.

Thank you again for your kindness.

On rising health care costs

By THOMAS H. BROWN
State Representative
37th District

The rising cost of health care is a serious problem. Such costs now represent about $1 out of every $11 we pay for all goods and services produced in the United States. Here in Michigan, each one of us will spend, on the average, about $737 this year to pay for necessary health services.

Although all of us feel the effects of higher health care prices, through our taxes, the dollars we pay to buy health insurance or the money we spend to buy health services, the burden is greatest on those of us who must depend on government programs to provide needed health services or go without, the poor and the elderly.

In the past, Michigan Legislators have often been in the position of having to react to increasing health care costs either by increasing taxes or reducing services. Neither of these choices is a very easy one for any of us to make. In 1977, however, members of the Legislature organized a special task force composed of people from private industry, labor and government to look at what else could be done to reduce health care costs.

As one of its major recommendations, the task force suggested that the Legislature establish a plan to reduce the supply of excess or empty hospital beds in Michigan. Excess hospital beds were chosen because they are an unnecessary expense and, given the high cost of hospital stay, the savings gained from reducing excess beds could be substantial.

Currently in Michigan, we have between 5 and 7 thousand beds more than we need to provide high quality hospital care.

There are a number of reasons for this.

First, many people have moved out of our cities into the suburbs, leaving a reduced number of patients who use our inner city hospitals. Additionally, fewer people are being born so our population is not growing as it once was. Also, we have more services that are being provided in clinics and doctors' offices with fewer people needing to be hospitalized.

The existence of excess beds contributes to unnecessary hospital costs because there are certain costs that must be paid regardless of whether or not the bed is filled or empty. Also, when there is a bed available there is often a great deal of pressure placed on physicians to put a patient in that bed, even though that person may be treated successfully elsewhere at a lower cost. The Office of Health and Medical Affairs, the health planning arm of state government, has estimated that, at a minimum, it costs over $30,000 per year to maintain each of these beds.

The Office estimates that the current excess bedding problem costs Michigan residents nearly $200 million per year. That represents money that is being spent in the health care area that is not providing needed services to Michigan residents.

In response to the problem, the Legislature adopted an amendment to the Public Health Code which establishes a plan to remove these beds. The plan is unique in that it establishes the local community as the primary element in the planning process. Some highlights of the plan are:

1. Planning for the reduction of excess hospital beds will be done at the local level. Although the Department of Public Health will be responsible for identifying those areas of the state where excess hospital beds exist, the responsibility for developing plans to reduce these beds will be assigned to the local health planning agencies.

2. One major intent of the bill is to begin to get hospitals to cooperate and to share their services. In the past, most hospitals have operated reasonably independently of one another, even though in many cases they have served the same residents in a community. The result has been that many of these facilities perform similar functions where it would be more economical to have them share responsibilities in serving community residents. The law will hopefully provide an opportunity for hospitals to begin to work together in a more cost effective manner.

3. The law provides for a five year frame in which to accomplish the necessary reductions in beds. The intent of the law is to provide a long enough period of time to insure that the bed reductions will not disrupt the delivery of medical care to the community and will not jeopardize the hospital's ability to provide that care.

4. Areas that have less than 25 excess beds will be exempt from the planning process. This provision will insure that many of the rural areas, where closing beds will not result in significant cost savings, will not be included in the law. The planning activities provided for in the law will not be required in these areas.

5. A committee has been established to address the financial and other problems associated with removing excess hospital beds. This provision will insure that hospitals will have the financial resources necessary to remove excess hospital capacity without jeopardizing their ability to provide high quality medical services.

During debate on the bill, I offered an amendment to the bill to modify the "subarea" definition of the bill to reflect the entire district of a hospital authority where these authorities have been established. I offered the amendment because I feel it is important to consider these authorities as a planning unit because we, as taxpayers, are directly paying for these facilities. Because of this, the determination of excess bedding should be made using the hospital authority as the planning unit. Due to the press of time, the amendment was not adopted by the House before it passed the bill.

Although the amendment was not adopted, I still believe the subareas should reflect hospital authority districts. Others may be convinced of the significance of this issue when the plans are presented, and hopefully the law can be amended in the near future.

This law is very important to all of us. If we can identify areas where we are spending our health care dollar unwisely and move to eliminate such expenditures we will have more of that dollar available to provide essential services to those who need them. This is our major legislative goal.

Reforming Social Security

By GARY OWEN
State Representative-22nd District

In a 400-page report presented to HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris and Congress on December 12, 1979, the Advisory Council on Social Security recommended that half of all Social Security benefits be included in income subjected to federal income tax. Social Security payments are entirely tax-free now.

This proposal is one of many made by this independent panel responsible for recommending changes to Congress in the Social Security system. In proposing to tax half the benefits, the Advisory Council pointed out that virtually no individuals or couples whose sole income is from Social Security would pay higher income taxes if the Council's proposal were adopted.

I am opposed to any recommendation subjecting benefits to federal income tax. I believe each person receiving benefits is entitled to them in full. Having planned for retirement based on anticipated benefits, you should not have the benefits diminished by paying income tax on half of them.

Finally, do not be too alarmed at this proposal for it will undergo much congressional scrutiny. If it is introduced as an amendment to the Social Security system, it must be passed by Congress before your benefits could be reduced. I do not think this is very likely to happen.

For advice

Ask Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMO, C.S.W.

Dear Carol,

First of all I should tell you I am a non-smoker, so obviously my question is biased.

Smoking in general does not bother me as there are adjustments you can make, open a window, spray an air freshener, etc.

What does absolutely drive me bananas is finding cigarette butts on food dishes or in the kitchen sink. I think this is so gross, that it practically gags me even to think of it. What it brings to mind is the worst greasy spoon you have ever been in where the cook has a cigarette dangling out of his mouth, getting ashes on everything, and dirty dishes sitting on the counter with dried food and cigarette butts on them. Yech!

If adequate numbers of ash trays are provided this should not happen (I think). It does. What I usually do as I see someone about to do this is I rush and get an ash tray for them, only to see them disregard it, as it is clean (?) and the plate is dirty.

How do I get my point across without seeming to be a nag or a fussbudget.

Non-Smoker

Dear Non-Smoker,

Sometimes it is extremely difficult if not virtually impossible, to get your point across without seeming to be a nag or a fussbudget. If it is important enough, then maybe that is the price you will have to pay.

However, there is one option that may work out for you. Try humor. Put their responsibilities on you. For instance, in asking for their indulgence, tell them that you have this terrible phobia. Laughing, tell them that you realize how silly it is but there it is and you are stuck with it. This approach will not make it appear that you are chastizing your guests and will give you more freedom to deal with it. After all, this is the day and age of open analysis.

By the way, I'm with you, ashes in plates are yech. Hope it works. Let me know.

Dear Carol,

My husband has been out of work for 5 months and hasn't found a job yet because he isn't skilled or doesn't have a high school diploma. I've been looking but haven't had any luck. We are getting a few food stamps and general assistance but it doesn't pay much of the rent. (Rent is $250.00 and we get $105.00 for rent). We are about 3 months behind on rent because we had no way of paying the other $145.00. Our landlord has started legal action against us and we will have no place to go. We have been trying to find a place lower in rent, but if we did we wouldn't have any money for the security deposit plus we have a dog.

We have bill collectors after us because we can't pay our other bills or car payments.

The only way for us to get some money is to sell our furniture. We have no one to turn to and don't know what to do. If you have any suggestions or ideas we would be very grateful. (He was a carpenter and is 30 years old. I'm 22. He doesn't have a journeyman's card).

Need Help

Dear Need Help,

There are places which have been established to help people just like you to get over some of the rough spots in life. Legal Aid was established to give legal assistance to people who are unable to afford the services of an attorney. An attorney can be provided for you free of charge. It also sounds as if you might get credit counseling. Sometimes it helps to consolidate all your bills and pay one rather than many. Probably be worth looking into at any rate.

Have you contacted your general assistance caseworker? The Department of Social Welfare can sometimes help in setting up budgets and information on living quarters. Don't forget there is also a Welfare Emergency Shelter so that regardless of your circumstances you will not need to be out in the cold.

But before anything that drastic occurs I suggest that you call the above mentioned agencies and ask them to help.

The number of Legal Aid: Landlord and Tenant Clinic is 961-1375 and for Credit Counseling the number is: 383-0860.

Good Luck!

1979: A slower year, but motorists still topping 55 mph

A Highway Users Federation analysis of 1979 speed data from states shows that the average motorist last year drove 55.8 mph on roads posted for 55, a pace slightly slower than 1978's average speed of 56.3 mph. About 54 percent of motorists violated the speed limit to some degree in 1979, with the percentage of speeders reported by the states ranging from a low of 28 percent in Virginia to a high of 72.5 percent in Texas.

Unless Texas lowers its percentage of speeders, it could lose a portion of its federal highway funds. Under terms of the 1978 Surface Transportation Assistance Act, states that show more than 70 percent of motorists exceeding 55 mph in federal fiscal year 1979 risk losing up to 5 percent of federal primary, secondary and urban road funds. However, states proving hardship may be given a 1-year "grace period" by the Secretary of Transportation.

The threat of funding cuts seems to have made a difference in 1979. On a national basis, the 1979 speed data show that the percentage of motorists exceeding 55 dropped almost 3 percent compared to 1978. In 1979, about one-fourth of the states reported speed averages of 55 mph or lower, with Texas reporting the highest average speed at 58.7 mph and Virginia the lowest at 51 mph.

In the survey some 56.75 percent of Michigan motorists exceeded the 55 mph speed limit, with an average speed of 56.2 mph.

States are required by law to collect speed data and report it to the Federal Highway Administration. The data is collected through the use of portable machines, radar equipment, and other devices. It does not represent the speed of all traffic on all of a state's highways.

The 1979 state-by-state speed surveys cover the fiscal year 1979 from October 1978 through September 1979 and report only free flow traffic speeds on roads posted for 55. Whether Texas or those states bordering the federal standard for 1979 lose federal highway funds won't be known for certain until early in 1980 when state data measuring other traffic speeds are reported and analyzed.

In fiscal year 1980, federal standards for 55 mph compliance will be stiffer — no state can show more than 60 percent of motorists exceeding 55 without risking part of their federal highway funds. The federal standard gradually stiffens year by year, and in 1983 and beyond states that show more than 30 percent of motorists violating 55 will face sanctions of 10 percent of federal road funds.

A decade ago, motorists sped into the '70s by averaging 59.2 mph and about 70 percent drove faster than 55 mph. In 1974, when the 55 mph limit was imposed, both the average speed and the percentage of speeders fell sharply to 55.3 mph and 51 percent, respectively.

By 1979, however, the average speed and percentage of speeders had crept upward once again, and so had traffic death tolls.

Salem wins Schoolcraft mat title

Schultz, Valchine and Winekoff are gold medalists

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Few were surprised that Plymouth Salem captured its first Schoolcraft Wrestling Invitational Championship Saturday night, but most were astounded by the relative ease that Coach Ron Krueger's grapplers annexed their fifth major tournament title of the season.

Salem amassed 203½ points to outdistance their closest challenger, Dearborn Heights, Annapolis by more than 50 points in the meet which drew some 28 teams to the Livonia-based community college over the weekend.

Krueger earlier had said he would keep his team "low-keyed for the tournament" because he feared that the members of the squad would burn themselves out before the league and district championships.

However, Krueger didn't hide the obvious that he was pleased with his team's winning performance at Schoolcraft.

"It is very difficult to stay up week-after-week and prepare for competition," Krueger said. "And I'm afraid we may run out of the gas for the state tournaments, however, I am very pleased with the victory. These kids are really getting the job done."

Salem had seven medalists, including a pair of golds which were contributed by 105-pounder Jim Schultz who earned a 3-2 decision over Annapolis's Ron Sullivan, and the second Salem champ, Jerry Valchine, a 138-pounder, reached the finals where he turned back Fenton's Jeff Soper, 7-2.

The champs also earned three second places with Jeff Brown (119), Jeff Powers (185) and heavyweight Greg Gattoni. They were fourth at 112 with Jeff Dunson and Mark Ross (126), while Scott Piper was fifth.

Belleville's outstanding senior 155-pounder, Rick Winekoff, led Coach Gerald Malecek's Tigers to a fifth-place finish as he picked up a gold by posting a major 8-0 victory over his counterpart from John Glenn, Ken Hodges.

The Tigers wound up second best at 145 with John Enzenauer, while Lonnie Renfroe (138) and Steve Cook (198) finished third. Other Belleville medalists included 119-pounder Fred Vera.

Westland John Glenn was represented on the dais with a trio of runners-up as Pete Bologna (98), Ken Hodges (155) and Gary Black (198) came within one victory of winning the gold. The Westlanders had a third place finisher in Duane Gibbs (145) and Jamie Cockrum (138), Dave German (185) and Mike Stebbins (heavyweight) were fourth, fifth and sixth, respectively.

Wayne Memorial's best performances came in the 105 and 132 pound classes where Dave Shell and Frank Turgeon came up with fourth place medals. Jim Daniel, a heavyweight, was fifth.

Plymouth Canton's John Surlock (105) and Tom Harreld (112) earned sixth place medals.

Salem not only went home with the Team Championship Trophy, but also was presented the team falls' award. Both Salem and Annapolis compiled 19 falls each, but Salem's

The Sports Meridian

The feud that just wasn't

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

It was a strange time, a time when George Bell would tap his baton on the podium to get the attention of members of the band. And then the music — strong, vibrant, marching tune echo through the football stadium.

There were few fans back in those days, bleak ones for Wayne Memorial's football team. In fact, I felt that there were more members of the band's booster club than honest-to-goodness grid fans in the stands.

GEORGE BELL

The time was the early sixties and Bell was head of the high school's music department. I was breaking in as a budding sportswriter here and always looking for the sensational for these pages.

John Glenn was still in its final stages and would soon become reality. My loyalty, then, was to the Zebras who were underdogs in almost all of their athletic endeavours.

One day Bell happened by the ANP office, and we began discussing sports and fans and arousing interest which inexcusably had waned and deteriorated to a point of no return.

"Why don't you hang me?" I asked Bell.

Bell looked at me — "Please, explain yourself?" he answered.

"I mean in effigy — make me out the fall guy and stir up some controversy so that at least people will get interested," I replied.

That is how the "infamous feud" between the Sports Meridian and Bell started.

Bell eventually was elevated to the principalship at Wayne Memorial where he immediately set in motion programs that helped make the school one of the finest in the state.

A strict disciplinarian who could not tolerate mediocrity, Bell continued to demand the best from his staff. Educators and coaches respected him as did members of the press who were often called on the carpet if we let our picas get the better of us.

Once while covering a football game at the University of Michigan where Wayne Memorial's band was participating in a Band Day program, I jokingly wrote that "I wonder who was responsible for the false note", aiming, that barb at the Zebras.

Bell was waiting for me the next day and asked for my music credentials.

I replied with a smile — but that's about all I could respond with.

Over the years our paths crossed at games, but he was never too busy to come over and ask a question of two.

Now that he has decided to leave the Wayne-Westland School District for the superintendent's job in the Van Dyke school system, there will be a void that I am sure will not be easily filled.

Sports in the area will be losing a truly great friend.

I know that Bell and I know, it will never be the same again in these parts.

Warding toward rebound

Although surrounded by Redford Union cagers, Westland John Glenn's Dave Ward (white jersey) perfectly times his leap to grab this rebound during Friday night's Northwest Suburban confrontation. Ward's rebounding and 20-point scoring contribution helped the Westlanders upset the previously undefeated conference leader, 84-67.

Belleville ends losing streak

If Belleville has been vulnerable in the third period, one could not have proven it by Coach Tom Niemi's team's performance against Adrian.

Outscoring their non-conference rivals 19-6 after the initial half, Belleville abruptly snapped a seven-game losing streak 66-54 last Tuesday.

"It really feels good to win one," said Coach Niemi who added that, "it was unfortunate we didn't play last Friday because I feel we finally got some momentum."

However, Belleville will be back on the hardwood this Friday when they travel to Romulus to test Coach Rod Hanna's Eagles. Romulus has a 4-3 record going into the week.

Charles Blackmon, a 5-7 senior guard provided the Tigers with the scoring impetus they needed to snap out of their slump. Scoring a season high 17 points, Blackmon rallied his teammates from 11-10 and 31-24 deficits after the first two periods to gain a 43-37 advantage for three-periods.

"I thought we played an exceptional third period," Niemi commented. "Defensively, we switched to a man-to-man after unsuccessfully playing a zone. We managed to shut them down in that

Wayne bows to Monroe

If they are a fourth-place team, Wayne Memorial cagers didn't play that role Friday night.

Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras put of their best show of the year and came within a pair of baskets of upsetting the undefeated Great Lakes 8 Conference pacesetter, Monroe.

Darryl Jordan's at-the-final buzzer basket left Wayne one basket shy of catching the visiting Trojans, who sealed their fifth conference victory, 65-63.

"I felt we played our best game of the year," said Schwartz whose team is 3-3 in the league and tied with Lincoln Park for fourth place. Wayne knocked off the Parkers, 57-44, earlier in the week.

"The difference in this game, I felt," Schwartz continued, "was at the foul line. We made 15-of-30. Also, we committed crucial back-to-back turnovers in the third period which enabled Monroe to widen their lead to six points in that quarter.

"Up to then we were exchanging baskets almost equally," he added.

Monroe gained the advantage by outscoring its hosts 17-11 in that decisive third period. It was deadlocked at 16-all after the first period and Wayne edged in front 30-29 after two periods.

Jordan and Bob Kost split 20 points between them, but Monroe's 5-10 sharpshooter, Charles Banks, was the man-of-the-hour. Banks was unstoppable as he pumped in 10 field goals and made a perfect 5-of-5 at the line for a game high 25 points.

Outscoring Lincoln Park 20-10 in the fourth period thanks to a balanced scoring attack led by Jordan, Wayne earned its third conference victory at the expense of the Parkers. Jordan turned in 21 points and nailed down 10 rebounds.

But Coach Schwartz said one of

Romulus to host Tigers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Playing five of their first seven games on the road and the recent holidays has taken its toll on Romulus and Coach Rod Hanna who watched helplessly last Tuesday as Detroit Southwestern exploded for 28 points in the final period to win a 79-57 game.

Winning their last two games before the Christmas Holidays, Hanna's Eagles managed to stay close with their hosts for three periods before the Prospectors finally put their superior board strenght to good use.

"We were never far behind," said Hanna who will turn his thoughts to Belleville Friday night. "They broke it open in the fourth because we just couldn't match up with them physically. I felt that our kids did a good job against them."

With Darryl Lewis, who scored six of his team high 18 points in the first period, back in the line-up, Romulus trailed by four, 21-17 after the first eight minutes and then by nine, 35-26, at the halfway mark. Both Teams scored 16 points in the third period.

Then, Curtis Moore, a 6-4½ senior forward, teamed with Leslie Rockmoore and Tony Joubert to fire up the Prospectors in the stretch. Moore tossed in seven of his 11 points in the last period and Joubert counted six of his 12 points during that crucial rally.

Along with Lewis, David Casey and Bobby Stewart were in double figures. Casey pumped in 17 points and Stewart finished with 12 for the Eagles who shot under 50 percent for the evening. They made 25 of 60 from the field.

Turnovers also helped in Romulus' downfall. The Eagles turned the ball over 24 times, 11 of those were in the pivotal fourth period.

"One of the things that hurt us," said Hanna, "was the long holiday break. We had the momentum then, and I hope this loss will only be a brief deviation from it."

Pressure is on Cherry Hill cagers

Spartans must beat unbeaten Riverside to stay in contention

The pressure is on Cherry Hill, the defending Tri-River Conference basketball champs.

Coach Dave Bogataj's Spartans put on a last period show at Melvindale Friday night, but it wasn't enough to overcome a pair of cold quarters and they dropped a 61-56 conference decision that left them trailing undefeated Dearborn Heights Riverside by two-games.

"We got our backs up against the wall" Bogataj admitted after the game. "Riverside is undefeated and we trail them by two games. Obviously, if we want to get back into this we're going to have to beat them." (Cherry Hill was scheduled to host the Dearborn Heights cagers Tuesday night).

"We can't lose to Riverside and realistically think we can win it," Bogataj continued. "Although in the past some teams have won the title with three losses, I doubt it if we can make up the difference this year."

The loss left the Spartans with a 2-2 conference and a 6-2 over-all record.

Melvindale, with the help of a Cherry Hill scoring drought in the first period, grabbed a 12-4 lead after Kevin Smith and Gary Williams gave the champs an early 4-0 lead.

"We didn't score the rest of the period," Bogataj said. "And I really don't have any explanation. We are getting the good shots, but they weren't falling."

The lead was all Melvindale needed. The Cardinals used their slow-down, pattern-style philosophy to frustrate the run-and-gunners. Melvindale kept ahead 30-21 at the halfway mark as Jim Savich teamed with 6-4 burly Frank Farraj to provide the Cardinals with enough scoring power.

In the meantime, the Spartans returned to the floor in the third period and lapsed into their doldrums despite Aaron Gregory's two tap-ins and Williams' short jumper. The Spartans kept in the game thanks to a 14-of-18 performance at the free throw line which didn't make up for an anemic 21-of-60 from the field.

Williams wound up with 16 points, the Spartans' high, while junior guard Greg Thompson added 14 and Greg Walters sank 11. Savich led all scorers with 20 points. Farraj accounted for 17.

The Spartans will also be at home Friday night to host coach Van Kostegian's Eagles from Taylor Kennedy, a team that is always tough in the conference.

Super soph swimmer

Dawkins sets 2 records

Although he is only a sophomore, Greg Dawkins, proved last week that he has the potential of developing into one of the finest swimmers in the area, if not the state.

Dawkins shattered a pair of records against natural rival, Wayne Memorial, but his individual feats weren't enough as Westland John Glenn bowed 93-79 to Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers.

Dawkins covered the 200-yard freestyle in 1:48.4, then came back and churned a 4:55.5 to pick up his second victory of the meet and remove from the Glenn record board performances set by Tom Bird.

Bird, presently in his first year as a med student at the University of Michigan, was on hand last Thursday to congratulate the young swimmer.

Wayne, undefeated in dual meet competition this year, received a superb effort from Mark Gallaher who teamed with Mike Soules, Tim Butler and Scott Martin to win the 200-yard medley relay, then Mark came back for impressive victories in the 100-yard butterfly and then helped win the 400-yard freestyle relay.

"It was a good meet," said Wayne Coach Jim McPartlin. "And it was closer than the final score indicates."

Glenn diver Rob Freeborn also set a record when he won his specialty with 272.15 points.

Belleville tankers roll

Belleville's swim machine cranked out its eighth consecutive victory last week as Coach Sam Vicchy's tankers breezed past Lincoln Park, 51-32.

Sweeping eight out of a possible 11 first places, Belleville wasn't threatened in this out-of-league confrontation. Dave Carlson accounted for two of those Tiger victories as he posted the winning time of 2:16.5 for the 200-yard individual medley, then came back to swim a 1:00.1 for the 100-yard butterfly.

"The team continues to look super," commented Vicchy who'll open the Suburban 8 Conference phase of the season Thursday night at Trenton.

"Trenton," continued the Belleville coach, "looks solid and appears to be a contender for the conference title. We can't afford a letdown in any of our meets this year."

Belleville's 400-yard freestyle relay team was the latest to qualify for the state as Breet Lawson, Chris Renton, Mike Stoelton and Ward Tomich turned in a 3:22.7 to win the final event against the Parkers.

Thweat, how sweet

Airborne is Westland John Glenn's Kevin Thweat (32) who has control of the rebound and the situation during Friday night's match-up with Redford Union. Glenn surprised R.U. and handed the league-leader its first league setback, scrambling the standings. Three teams - R.U., North Farmington and Livonia Franklin - boast 2-1 records and are tied for first place.

Johnson's closes gap

Heat is on Over 30 hockey leader, Futurama Engineering

What a difference a couple of weeks make.

It seemed like only yesterday that Futurama Engineering had a lock on the Bonkowski Division title in the Over-30 Wayne-Westland Hockey League.

But that isn't so this week as Johnson Carbonic closed the gap and is now within a point of catching the leader. Johnson's edged the pacesetter, 4-3, to put the heat on Futurama which has won 11 and dropped three, while the second-place Johnson's has amassed a 10-3-1 record.

In that crucial showdown, Johnson's was in command most of the way as Futurama scored two late goals to make it look closer than it was.

Bob Murray, Guy Moise, Ron Johnson and Jerry Robertson scored for the winners, while Dave Frankling tallied both goals for the losers.

In other action, Jock Shop kept its faint hopes alive with a 4-2 victory over Extra Point Bar. Jock's trails the leaders by five points. John Clearwood and Dennis Broze took care of the scoring as they notched a couple of goals each. On the scoresheet for the losers were Barry Anderson and Jack Bockstanz.

In the meantime over in the Berrington Division, Tastee Freez moved into first place as it blasted a struggling Jake's Lounge 8-2. Tastee Freez racked up six goals before the losers got on the board. League-leading scorer Terry Carley added to his total with a hat trick to pace the attack, while teammate Dave Milam added a pair with Ralph Tack, Mo Poquette, and Mary Borychi each getting one. Dennis McCormick and Corky Hays scored for Jake's.

Jack's Sports Center came up with three goals in the final eight minutes of the contest to earn a 5-5 tie with Brock's Homes. Murray Peterson got the equalizer with a minute to spare in the game. Ron Wojewski, John Colligan, and Ray Erickson scored for Jack's.

Dave Zajac, collected a hat trick for Brock's with Don Middaugh and Ken Carter also tallying one apiece.

The teams will be back on the ice Sunday when Johnson's clashes with Jack's at 8:30 p.m. in the Westland Rink. Tastee Freez and Jock's meet at 10 p.m.

Over at the Wayne Arena, Brock and Extra Point have a 9 p.m. date and the league-leader, Futurama takes on Jake's at 10:30 p.m.

Belleville falls to Trenton matmen

Belleville, the defending Suburban 8 Conference wrestling champ, opened up the league phase of the campaign last week by clashing with the owner of the other half of the title, Trenton.

And Trenton proved to Coach Gerald Malacek's Tigers that the Trojans want all of the crown this year. As if the 34-22 Belleville defeat wasn't bad enough, the Tigers will now face Plymouth Salem, a team that has won five major invitational championships this year.

Salem will host the defending co-champs Thursday night, and another Tiger loss would about kill their chances to repeat as league champs.

Glenn jolts Redford Union, 84-67

Franklin moves into 3-way tie for first place in Northwest

Livonia Franklin is sitting pretty on top of the Northwest Suburban Conference cage world.

And Coach Jim McIntyre can thank Westland John Glenn and his own Patriots for that unexpected pleasantry. Glenn stunned previously undefeated Redford Union 84-67 behind pivotman Dave Ward's 20 points — a career high — and while Coach Dan Henry and his Rockets were doing their thing, Livonia Franklin overpowered Garden City East 57-40.

The Westlanders scrambled the league standings and when the pieces are put together fans will find Franklin, North Farmington and Redford Union crowded at the top with 2-1 records.

It was Glenn's first victory of the league campaign and second win in eight starts.

Franklin bolted from a 13-8 first period advantage to take a 30-18 halftime edge over Mike Riley's Panthers who couldn't snap out of their slump in the second half. The Livonians put the game away for good with a 21-8 wedge in the third period.

"We were able to match up with East as far as size goes," McIntyre said, "and I felt that we just were a bit quicker than they were."

Bob Gohl teamed with Jon McCarthy to provide the Patriots with more than half of their points. Gohl hit on eight field goals and canned 5 of 12 at the foul line for a game high 21 points. McCarthy accounted for 16 points, getting seven baskets from the field.

Franklin's defense held East to 13 field goals. None of the Panthers managed to reach double figures.

The Livonians will travel to Redford Thurston on Friday, while Glenn will seek its second conference victory that night at the expense of an ailing Garden City East quintet.

Does he, or doesn't he?

Glenn's Wayne Woodard (white jersey) sneaks past this Redford Union guard for a driving lay-up which hugs the backboard. Woodard apparently didn't get his basket, but he and his teammates made up for it the rest of the night as they jolted the Northwest Suburban Conference leaders, 84-67 to post their first conference win of the campaign, and only their second victory in eight starts. Coach Dan Henry and his cagers will head for Garden City East Friday night after playing out-of-league rival, Taylor Truman, Tuesday night. The Westlanders are sporting a 1-2 conference mark.

Wayne gives Monroe scare

the reasons his team managed to pull off the victory was because of Bill Hargrove's superb defensive effort. Hargrove checked Lincoln Park's center, 6-9 Vince Ford who was held to 10 points, but he got only four while Hargrove's was guarding him.

Trailing 13-11 after the first period, Wayne rallied to a 29-28 halftime advantage before the two teams retreated into a cautious ball game in the third period. Wayne kept the edge by outscoring their rivals 8-6 in that period, then broke it open with a flurry of baskets in the finale.

After clashing with state-ranked Ypsilanti on Tuesday, Wayne will return to the friendly confines of the Zebra gym Friday night to host third-place Wyandotte. They will begin the second round of league competition on Tuesday when winless Riverview comes to town.

Glenn to host double mat duel

Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn, defending champs of their respective leagues, will take on Midland Dow and Flushing in a double dual wrestling meet scheduled for noon at the Westland high school's gym.

Wayne picked up its third Great Lakes 8 Conference victory last Thursday as Coach John Wood's grapplers trampled Dearborn Fordson, 46-19. At the same time, Glenn buried Garden City East 67-6 to flex its muscles over its Northwest Suburban Conference rivals.

quarter — it was our best third period of the season."

Scott Straight, who chipped in 11 points and helped the Tigers control the boards, Scott Forster who had eight points and Jeff Patterson, who finished with seven, were the mainstays of Belleville's attack.

"I felt that Rooks (Bruce) and Johnson (Glenn) also were instrumental in turning this game around for us," Niemi pointed out. "They came up with some real key plays. We also forced them into making 28 turnovers which was a key factor in this game."

Belleville cashed in on 20-of-32 free throws, the first time this season the Tigers have hit 60 or better percent at the foul line. From the floor, Belleville made 23-of-65 for 35 percent.

Adrian was deadly at the foul stripe where they canned 20 of 23 opportunities.

The Tigers were back in Suburban 8 action Tuesday night, taking on Trenton in an away game.

potpourri

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

The hardest part of writing a weekly column is the lead-in. And, folks, tonight (it's 10:38 p.m. last Thursday) I simply cannot produce anything very catchy or stimulating.

Having "sat" the day away — eight hours in the old swivel chair in Belleville, a couple more coffeeing with an old friend and then a final three over dinner and a sell-session on resort condominiums, the poor ol' brain is about numb as the poor ol' bottom.

A sitter I am not and, in the event I wind up on an unpadded chair, I can get terribly antsy (and sore) in a hurry.

So, "potpourri" this will surely be (a poem!) as I begin with, miscellanea rather than terribly thought-provoking material. Okay?

ONE PLEASANT THING that's happened of late is "feedback" — comments on past columns . . . hints that've been found worthwhile . . . recipes that've proved kitchen-worth . . . book reviews that you've agreed or disagreed with . . . whatever, it's the highest form of flattery for someone who attempts to beat out a regular message.

Three recent conversations concerned the same item — that "Quick Clam Chowder" I suggested for cheatin' a little during the holidays. My good buddy, Jack, who prefers his chowder the New England rather than the Manhattan way, said he substituted cream of potato for the called-for condensed tomato soup and found it to be exactly the taste HE wanted.

Dear old friends, Louise and Irv, found it SUPER just as printed and highly recommend it to soup lovers everywhere.

And that sweetie, Mary, who ALWAYS has something nice to say suggests that we get even lazier and cut out the finely diced and cooked salt pork or bacon in favor of ready-packaged (but real) bacon pieces. And, having had some of those chow mein rice noodles left over when she made her first Q.C.C., she found them a delightful addition atop the hot creamy liquid.

And — if you didn't clip out the recipe and want it, give me a call tomorrow (Thursday) 'tween 9 and 2 at 697-9191.

———

EVER WONDER where some of the "titled" dishes we prepare or consume got such specific names? Such favorites as Welsh Rarebit, Chicken Marengo, Beef Stroganoff, ice cream "sundaes", or Waldorf Salad for instance?

Let's concentrate on Waldorf. Salad this week and take the others as space allows, shall we?

"Oscar" didn't always mean an Academy Award. In the 1890's, it referred to a winning maitre d', Oscar Tschirky, otherwise known as "Oscar of the Waldorf" since he headed the dining room staff of that era's most famous American hotel.

The "Old Waldorf" stood on the Manhattan corner now graced by the Empire State Building; and the refrain of the socialites who dined there was, "Ask Oscar" — as they deferred to his astute judgment regarding foods and wines.

Proud of his lofty reputation, Oscar was wont to say, "My job is the SERVING of food, never the cooking." He broke his own rule, however, when he improvised an intriguing salad of apples, celery and mayonnaise, temptingly served on a bed of lettuce leaves.

Diplomatically, he named the dish, not for himself, but for his place of employment.

The Waldorf, itself, had been named for the German village which was the birthplace of the hotel's founder, John Jacob Astor. He, of course, amassed legendary wealth, but his maitre d' didn't do badly either. "Oscar's Cookbook" was a turn-of-the-century best seller!

———

Couldn't help but wonder if, on making returns after the holidays, any of you experienced the same kind of indifference with which yours truly was confronted.

A blouse with a lopsided Eton collar (not noticeable until tried on and buttoned) had to be taken back to Albert's for obvious reasons.

On entering I approached the cashier near the door and was immediately (and scornfully) told that "All returns go to the back of the store." Okay! The rear wing not only had a double line of customers patiently waiting but, of course, only ONE clerk to see to the job.

It took me 20 minutes for the simple task of a return and credit on my Visa. None of that irked me quite as much, however, as the fact that after I'd explained WHY I was making the return, the clerk re-ticketed the item and minutes later it was back on the rack for some other unsuspecting shopper. Signs of our times!!

Chalked up three more novels since my last "review" and, without going into detail, I will suggest them for some easy and quite interesting reading.

Having decided to keep it on the lighter side of late, I'm avoiding the in-depth stuff for awhile ('til they call me from the library to say the new Irwin Shaw book I reserved is in, that is.)

An author I found many, many years ago through the recommendation of a former roommate, is Nelia Gardner White. "The Pink House" was the first stuff I ever read and then, for some reason, I could no longer find her books on local shelves. It was these many years later, while browsing through the "W's" that she came to mind.

And, sure 'nuff, Tecumseh had N.G.W. and quite a selection at that. I've since been through "A Little More than Kin", "The Thorn Tree" and "The Gift and the Giver".

Hers is rather an old-fashioned form of writing and one that will appeal mainly to women — poignant, thought-provoking, identifiable.

Also recently got into another of Helen Van Slyke's novels, "The Best Place to Be", and as I progressed, I realized it'd been made into a movie for TV — one I'd seen and thought rather good. But — try as I might, I could NOT remember who'd played the various characters with the exception of Efrem Zimbalist, Jr. If you chance to get the book and can identify the widow, Sheila; Dr. Jerry Mancini, Sally, Maryann or Patrick, I'd sure like to be filled in.

Checking on my calendar (where I keep track of books I've read) I discovered there WAS a bit of fiction I rather liked — this one somewhat heavier and which should be of interest to men, too. Get yourself "Face Value" by a new author, Ron Powers, for an insight into the making of a big-time comedian whose backers really have the U.S. Senate in mind for "their boy".

It might clear up the mystery of why such unappealing non-talents as Linda Lavin, Bernadette Peters (yech!), Karen Black, Barbi Benton, Tanya Tucker, Lynda Carter and their many counterparts have "made it". They are "packaged" . . . check out Powers' fictional account on the maneuvering and production of "big names."

Although his characters are all proclaimed as having "no resemblance to actual persons, living or dead", it doesn't take an iota of imagination to figure out who they ARE likened-to.

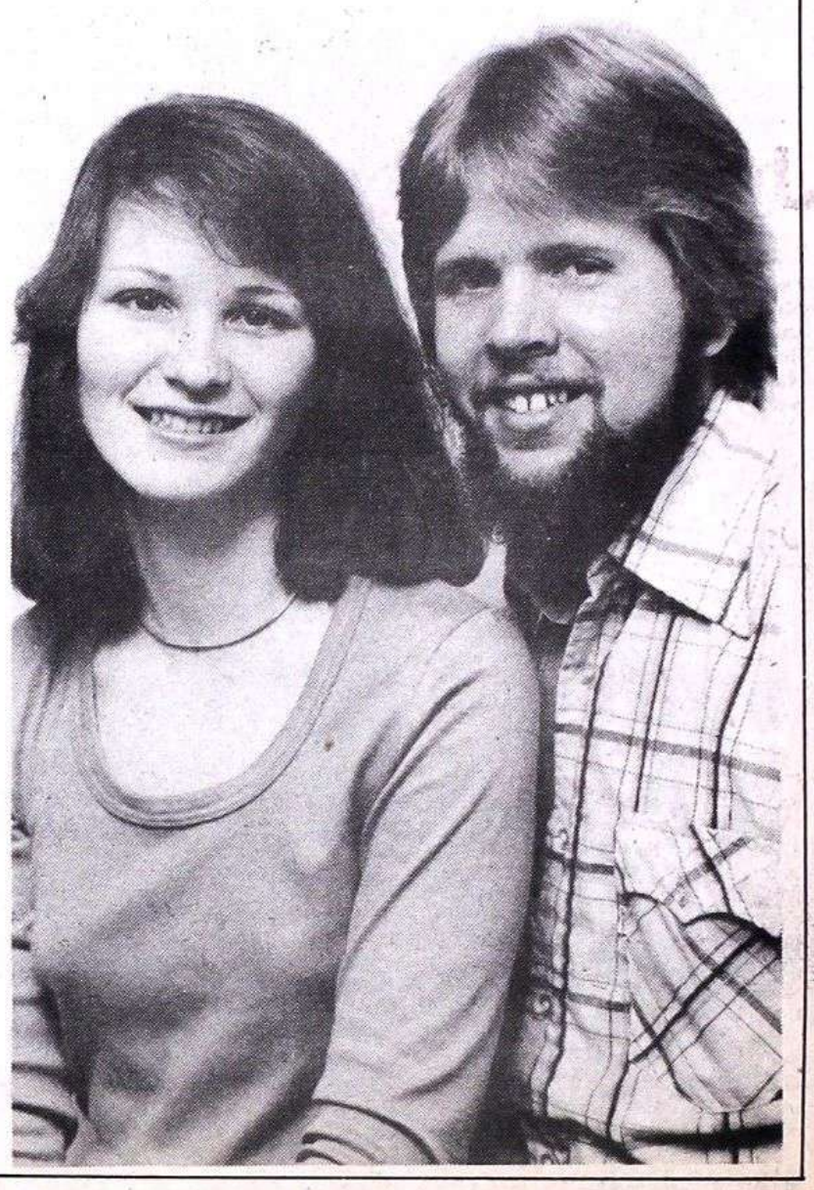
THE BOTTOM LINE: Pity the putdown artist more than you resent him. The chronic need to belittle others is more a sign of weakness than a show of strength.

March wedding set

The engagement and wedding plans of Cynthia Beth Palmer and John Marcus Fletcher are being announced by Kenneth and Elizabeth Palmer of 128 Clarence St., Belleville, parents of the bride-elect. A graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Palmer received her associate degree from Michigan Christian College following a year at Eastern Michigan University. She later earned a bachelor of arts degree in art with a minor in music at Oklahoma Christian College and is planning to continue her education at Oklahoma University. A member of Alpha Psi national drama fraternity and Kappa Pi national art fraternity, she is employed at Art-Framer in Oklahoma City. The prospective bridegroom is the son of W. Harold and Mary Helon Fletcher of 313 E. 14th St., Edmond, Okla. An alumnus of Edmond Memorial High School, he attended Oklahoma Christian College and is currently continuing his studies in music history and trombone at Oklahoma University in Norman, Okla. A full-time student, he is affiliated with the National Music Fraternity and Phi Mu Alpha and is a member of O-U's orchestra and trombone choir. The Mayfair Church of Christ Chapel in Oklahoma City is being reserved for the young couple's March 7 altar date.



Ralph Parish, Tawna Redden wed in Garden City church

In a single ring ceremony at Good Hope Lutheran Church in Garden City, Tawna Gail Redden and Ralph Leroy Parish were joined in holy matrimony with Pastor Dean Beck-with presiding at the five o'clock rite.

Mr. and Mrs. Estel Redden of 1204 Haggerty Rd., Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Parish of 29483 Alvin, Garden City, are parents of the young couple who are now making their home at 6500 Venoy in Garden City.

For her wedding day the bride donned a floor-length silk creation designed with a lace-trimmed fitted bodice, balloon sleeves with deep lace cuffs and a chapel train. The gown was made by the bride with help from her sister, Cathy Jones, and friends, Loraine Wauer and Teri Gohl.

Her veil of silk illusion, which drifted to shoulder length from a butterfly cluster comb, completed her ensemble along with an arrangement of silk white roses, daisies, pink and blue carnations and pearl spray created by Loraine Wauer.

The bridegroom's sister, Nancy Parish, served as honor attendant in a sapphire blue toe-touching frock with fringed lace on the little fitted bodice. She carried a single rose and one carnation accented with white streamers, also the work of Miss Wauer.

Robert Wauer of Romulus assumed the duties of best man.

At the reception, given by the bridegroom's parents with assistance from Betty Parish, aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Parish received guests in a powder blue floor-length dress with matching lace shawl. Her white carnation corsage was fashioned of silk.

The bridegroom, who is employed at American Standard in Dearborn, spent two years with the U.S. Army overseas and was a member of the German-American Relations Club and KAKO Explorers Club.

Thoms-Sitarski engagement told

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thoms of Henry Ruff Road, Romulus, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Anne Thoms, to Phillip Sitarski, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Sitarski, also of Romulus.

The bride-elect, who is in her senior year at Romulus High School, is employed at Apple Tree Convalescent Home in Romulus.

Her fiance, a senior at Aquinas High School in Southgate, is employed at the Sheraton Motor Inn of Romulus.

The young couple have made no wedding plans at this time.

"Maria" by Maria Augusta Trapp. Maria von Trapp is one of the most colorful personalities of the 20th century. Here, for the first time, the story of the real Maria of "Sound of Music" fame is told as it really happened. The pages unfold the moments of truth, love, anger, despair and joyous heights that reach heaven itself as Maria von Trapp shares her untold life, marriage and escape from Hitler's Germany — a powerful blend of the bitter and the sweet.

"The Nature of Alexander" by Mary Renault. Alexander the Great, like his boyhood hero, Achilles, traded long life for lasting fame. His fame has lasted — far longer than the knowledge of his world, which is needed to understand him. The aim of Mary Renault's study has been to peel off from this complex and dynamic human being the accumulated layers of wishful thinking, both idealizing and ideological, and show him not in our terms but his; as he saw himself, and was seen by his friends, his enemies, the men he led and the people he conquered. Besides the statements of those who knew him in life, of which many fragments have been preserved, she has studied the folk memory "which can be neither enforced nor bought" handed down in the lands he ruled.

ADK to attend reading council in Dearborn

Alpha Delta Kappa (ADK), international honorary sorority for women educators, met Jan. 9 at Savage Elementary School where two Quirk Road teachers, Sally Griffith and Anne Smith, were hostesses.

Conducted by Marian Batzer, president, the meeting included plans for helping with and donating items for a bingo party at the Van Buren Convalescent Home to be held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Jan. 12.

At their December meeting, club members heard Jude Extel, program director for Quincy II Home for Retarded Adults, and James Mender, executive director of Pyramid Human Services, Inc., speak. Their goal is to provide a home for retarded adults; that is, to relocate them from an institutional environment to a normal independent setting.

Next month the women of ADK will travel to a school in Dearborn where they will attend a reading council in order to become aware of the latest reading materials available from various publishers.

Junior Honor Society

Junior Honor Society formed at SJHS

An induction ceremony was held Dec. 11 in South Junior High School's Media Center for ninth grade students who have been chosen as the first members in the new National Junior Honor Society at South Junior High.

Cari Bactens, Debbie Bechel, Eric Brown, Sue Cook, Jenifer Dapsi, Steve Eissinger, Kimberly Fields and Cindy Fitch were included along with Pam Graham, Gregg Helzerman, Traci Horrocks, Vicki Hughes, Linda Johnson, Andrea Losen, John Millard, Brock Nigg, Ed Nowak, Stacey Samuels, Tami Vicchy, Patrick Villeneuve, Scott Voelker and Tim White.

Key speaker at this ceremony was Superintendent of Van Buren Public Schools, Dr. Elvin Peets. Four former south students, Anne Baxter, Susan Shoup, Sharon Alger and Carl Palnau, who are now Honor Society members at Belleville High School, spoke on character, leadership, scholarship and service. These are the four tenets on which membership is based.

The Junior Honor Society is a first at South and Mrs. Janet Coole, the advisor of the group, has high hopes for this year's members.

Principal Don White announced that the local Chapter was named the Michael Mlsna Chapter in honor of the late School Board President of Van Buren Public Schools.

Just in passing

A 'potpourri' of thoughts

By KAY DeBORD

To borrow a word from my counterpart, Lee Smith, who is well-known to readers of the Belleville Enterprise and the Romulus Roman, this Just in Passing is going to be a "potpourri" of the things that pass through a columnist's mind.

Such as hoping that one day persons who turn in stories for the paper won't try to pin us down to just which issue the story will be in. (Is that the only issue read?).

For one thing, once the story is written it becomes the responsibility of the news editor who "dummies" or maps out the paper. Thus, the writer can't guarantee anything.

For what it is worth, due consideration is taken on whether or not the story is to publicize a coming event, and in that case, it gets priority. Other stories are used as space is available, and we like to use as many stories or articles as possible to give the readers a variety.

Those who seek to impress a reporter taking a story with a casual reminder that "we advertise with your paper" immediately set our backs up because we try to give everyone a fair shake and the idea that we can be so influenced is a bit insulting.

Another comment that fails to inspire us is being told that another paper or a TV crew is going to be there covering the story. It's their job, just as it is our job, so we don't need to be prodded into action. In fact, it might be just the reverse.

It's a little disturbing to have people expect the staff to recall each and every story that have pounded out on the typewriter over a period of weeks. If it's something major, we might, but considering the volume of material, it's expecting a lot.

We'll be glad to help our readers find a story that they missed seeing in the paper, but hopefully we won't be looked at like we had two heads, if it doesn't pop into the mind the first thing.

We all know we get paid for doing a job, but a note of appreciation or a call to thank us for our efforts is greatly encouraging. Regretably, we usually just hear about our "sins of omission," or mistakes.

Then there are the people who corner you when you are out socially and remind you that what they say "doesn't go in the paper." Believe me, it won't!

All in all, people are pretty understanding, and they seem to realize that newspaper people are humans who have their fair share of shortcomings.

ARE YOU SUFFERING FROM LOWER BACK PAIN?

This year, nation-wide, hundreds of thousands of people will suffer the disabling effects of spinal injury. Many of these symptoms of defects first appear as pain in the lower back and leg. The Doctor of Chiropractic has learned from long experience that most lower back and related leg pains are caused by physical defects in the alignment of one or several segments of the lower spine. Whenever lower back pain occurs, and persists, see your Doctor of Chiropractic. His experience and training will help you onto the road to recovery.

Experiences teach that for the spine to function properly as a flexible and dependable posture support, and at the same time provide protection for the spinal cord and nerves, each of its segments.(vertebrae) must be in precise alignment with connecting segments. In addition, a critical range of movement must be maintained by supporting muscles and ligaments.

A sudden fall, accident or strain from lifting can destroy this delicate balance and precision movement. Another contributing factor can be poor posture. The results of this structurally altered spine is chronic or recurring back pain. It must be remembered that normal strain on a structurally weak back, or severe strain on a normal back may be sufficient to displace the vertebrae. The forcing of the vertebrae into out-of-range positions alters the nerve openings, pinching the nerve supplying the adjacent parts of the body. This can result in discomforts and other serious symptoms affecting all parts of the body.

For an example, the spinal nerves supplying energy to the legs pass through tiny openings between vertebrae in the lower spine. When one or several vertebrae are displaced, the nerves may be compressed, causing a nerve pain which extends down the leg. The alignment of the lower back is a vital and necessary part of the well-being of the human body. Care and treatment of existing conditions can prevent serious conditions and results.

What protection should I have for my family?

Most people feel the responsibility to assure their family or survivors a reasonably smooth adjustment to life without you. Fulfilling this responsibility helps greatly in your peace of mind. Life insurance protection, written up by a knowledgeable agent to suit your situation, is an important step.

A will is an essential document that will assure your estate will be directed as you desire. State laws vary so a competent lawyer in the state of your residence is your best advisor. Important items to include in your will might include the naming of an executor, your bequests of significant properties, trust funds, and any memorial or remembrance gifts.

Pre-planning your funeral arrangements is also a great relief to your survivors. You definitely will relieve their burdens in their hours of sorrow and we can help you with this without cost or obligation.

Keep in mind that safe-deposit boxes are usually inaccessible for some time after a death. A small savings account or a book of Traveler's Checks which are immediately available will help until the estate is settled.
